Sports Outlook

"We hope to continue from where we left off last year," was Coach Ira R. Herr's comment when questioned about the program of school athletics for the coming year.

With colleges once again having larger enrollments, athletics will regain the prominence they held before the war.

"Because of the late date for the opening of school, the early basketball season planned, and the difficulty in getting equipment, a soccer schedule has not been made out for this year," stated Coach Herr, "but we hope to plan one for next year."

The basketball squad suffers a loss of three veterans: Eugene Shirk, Paul Leicht and George Althouse. Both Shirk and Leicht were varsity men and held scoring honors.

"With the return of a number of ex-G.I.'s who have had experience of high school and service teams and with the coming of several high school stars, the prospects for the basketball season are encouraging," although height is still a quality lacking" added the Coach.

Twenty games have been scheduled and there is a possible game with Bethany Biblical seminary. The varsity schedule is below.

The baseball prospects are brighter than during the war years, with several new catchers who Coach hopes, "will strengthen a weak spot of the past two years." There is a probability of a fourteen-game schedule for the baseball season.

Three men, Harold Fellenbaum, Frank Zink and Charles Irvine, who were unbeaten in college tennis competition last year are returning. They won two games played with Dickinson and one with Franklin and Marshall.

Since there are few prospects coming in for the women's basketball team, the talent will have to come largely from last year's squad.

Dr. Jesse H. Ziegler Leads Christian Life Emphasis Week, Oct. 28 to Nov. 1

Lowell Zuck Travels for UNRRA Visits Ruins of Danzig, Poland

On August 30, Lowell Zuck, a senior at the college, left for Danzig, Poland on his second trip for the UNRRA, helping to transport a shipload of four hundred horses.

Upon his arrival in Poland he visited the ruins of Danzig, which he stated, "are practically all that remain of the city." UNRRA took all the "cowboys" on a tour and they saw the various Polish towns, among which was Gdynia, a new seaport city. The tour was completed with a Polish banquet held for the "sea-going cowboys" which included vodka and various dishes of fish and vegetables.

During the three and a half day stay Lowell talked German to the people, who were very friendly, and for relaxation he went swimming in the Polish Sea, which "was full of scrap metal and terrifically cold," according to Lowell.

The only work on the trip home was painting various parts of the ship. They arrived in the states on September 27.

Among the other colleges represented on the trip were Oberlin, Ohio State and University of Tennessee.

Lowell is a pre-ministerial student on campus, and an active member of the religious organizations. He is also president of the International Relations club and a member of the Sock and Buskin.

Five Chapel Programs, Consultations Featured

Dr. Jesse H. Ziegler, associate professor of Christian education and mental hygiene at Bethany Biblical seminary, Chicago, will be the leader of Christian Life Emphasis week at Elizabethtown college the week of October 28 to November 1, sponsored by the Student Christian movement and the faculty committee on religious activities.

Dr. Ziegler, a leader in the field of religious education and personal counseling, will attempt to offer aid to the religious life of the students in three distinct ways, according to the sponsors of Christian Life Emphasis week.

He will speak in five extended chapel services to which all the students are invited. In the afternoons he will be available for personal counseling to all who desire it.

Informal meetings in the dormitories or elsewhere will also provide discussion and help settle personal problems.

Prof. Mahlon Hellerich Admires Modernistic Art

A trip to Germany by courtesy of the United States army gave Prof. Mahlon Hellerich, new history professor at Elizabethtown college, an opportunity to pursue one of his favorite pastimes—admiring modern art.

A former sergeant in an intelligence outfit of the army, Professor Hellerich spent fifteen months in Germany, where he served in a prisoners' camp. During this time he collected many beautiful pieces of art.

Among the most impressive of these is a hand-carved, life-like statue of Saint Paul. The two-foot-high, wooden figure is the work of a professional wood sculptor near Heidelberg, who specializes in carving wooden figures for various cathedrals. At the time Professor Hellerich last saw the sculptor he was working on a five-foot statue of the Madonna for the Mainz Cathedral.

Letter to the Editor

• Dear Editor:

A display of photochrome reproductions of famous French paintings, electrically lighted, has been loaned to the library by the French embassy through the request of Dr. Frederick Neuman.

A record musicale was held in the Social room on the night of October 11 in charge of Lowell Zuck, who chose both symphonic and popular records.

Dean Vera Hackman is chairman of the committee of arrangements for the Convention of Pennsylvania Association of Deans of Women to be held in Harrisburg, November 1 and 2.

Miss Dorothy Pfaltzgraff from York, who completed the Medical Secretary course last year, spent the week end of October 12 and 13 at the college.

Dr. Charles S. Apgar announced that the following students are available as projectionists for the school year 1946-1947: Esther Goldfus, Kay Hoffman, Beverly Lay, Sara Price, Helen Rebert, Jean Sharpe, Marian Shaub, Janet Senft and Doris Witter.

David Markey, Charles Whitacre and Lowell Zuck, the remaining members of last year's male quartette, have chosen Clyde Weaver, a freshman, to sing tenor in place of Carl Myers who was graduated.

The students who went on the progressive moonlight hike on October 4, were entertained afterwards in the game room by "Wee Willie" Withers' unique method of taking pictures.

We wish to thank Mrs. J. W. Kettering for making our social room so attractive and we want her to know how much we are enjoying it. It is most certainly contributing to a more pleasant school year.

Sincerely,
The Student Body

Hither and yon—news travels fast, and "The Scribbler" will get it to you first hand.

Don't look for logic, congruency, or sense, for you won't find it here. This column is definitely devoted to bits of philosophy, gossip, and rumors. What is said here is for the enjoyment of all. It is to be light and fancy-free. I promise you not much thought will be required to get to the bottom of the episodes listed herein. I am not a writer—I am only a scribbler.

Fall has arrived in E-town. Mother Nature has painted a beautiful picture on campus and believe me it is being enjoyed—not only by individuals but couples and groups. With so many new faces on campus there is a great deal of getting acquainted to be done, and if I may make a comment here, it is being done quite effectively.

The new people on campus are being introduced to extra-curricular activities slowly but surely. The S. C. M. has progressed with their drive for membership. Here is some logic along the line. Some one asked Charlie Forney (who was recruiting students into S. C. M.) why the fee was raised to one dollar per semester. "Well," replied Charlie, "everything has gone up—including spiritual food!" Right, isn't he?

I heard a bit of "foolosophy" the other day that I would like to pass along. A group of people were discussing problems when one pipes up, "Why worry—what's to be's to be," a good thing to remember when the first exam time comes around.

In the middle of October, one always starts thinking of witches and goblins and that night known as Hallowe'en. At E. C. students can start holding the date open for the masquerade party. Such events can't help but build up the social life of an individual. Week ends at home are pleasant, week ends at colleges are filled with surprises.

Do you want to buy a duck? Recently "Wee Willie" Withers, from Erie, Pennsylvania tried his best to capture a real live duck under the steps out at South hall. However, till he got the one end closed up the mighty little duckling escaped out the other. Wee Willie merely wanted to keep him in his room.

While registering, George Caba made this statement—"My only recreation is my wife." Beware girls, Caba means it too.

Folks, if this is the end, then I guess this is the end. I'll be seeing you next month.

Your secretary,

Prof. Mahlon Hellerich Admires Modernistic Art

The statue of Saint Paul is carved from two pieces of wood skillfully fastened together, and took one month to complete. In one arm the figure holds a removable wooden sword, and in the other an opened scroll with the inscription "Christus Derselbe Gestern Heute Und In Ewigkeit," "Christ the Same, Yesterday, Today, and Forever."

Several oil paintings by internees at the prisoners' camp at which he was stationed were also brought back to America by Professor Hellerich. One is a portrait of his thirteen-month-old daughter, Connie. It was painted from a photograph of Connie at the age of six months, sent to him by Mrs. Hellerich. Another is a reproduction of a famous old painting by Goya.

Among the large number of toys brought back for Connie, are a hand-painted cart, a doll house with miniature furniture and puppets. For Mrs. Hellerich there were jewel boxes and carved sewing boxes. He also brought several miniature landscapes of Germany cities.

Professor Hellerich is now living in one of the apartments on the first floor of Fairview hall with his wife and daughter. Both Professor and Mrs. Hellerich are originally from Allentown.

A graduate of Muhlenburg in 1940, Professor Hellerich also attended Columbia university in 1941 and 1942, and Temple university in 1943 and 1944. He is now continuing his studies at Columbia by attending week-end classes.

Besides teaching history, Professor Hellerich is assisting Dr. R. W. Schlosser by teaching an English Composition class. He is also interested in Lutheran student activities and is advisor of the LSA on campus.

In addition to Keath, Hivner, Shiffer, Boll, Reed, Reinhold, Black, Meyer, and Gingrich from last year's squad, Coach Herr expects good prospects among the many new men on campus. He states that all basketball candidates are invited to come out. There will be plenty of activity, and the best will be chosen.

In a poll conducted by the Christian Century, Dr. Sockman was named one of the six foremost clergymen of all denominations in this country today. Since 1908 he has served as minister on a nationwide radio program, the National Radio Pulpit. His book, "The Highway of God," containing the Lyman Beecher lectures given at Yale, was a religious book club selection.

Dr. Sockman, who was president of the Federation of Churches for two years, has recently returned from Russia, where he went at the invitation of the Red Cross as a delegate of the American Society for Russian Relief.

Keath, Gingrich, Meyer Visit Italy and Germany

Two trips to Europe for UNRRA occupied the summer vacation of three college sophomores, Walter Gingrich, Frank Keath and Matthew Meyer.

They left the states on June 9 for Bremen, Germany aboard "Queen's Victory," which was transporting seven hundred and sixty-eight horses.

"Bremen was practically in ruins," stated the "cowboys." During their four-day stay in the German city they visited the Red Cross center located in Hotel Bremen, saw "Ike" stadium and attended the opera, "The Barber of Seville."

Food was taken along from New Windsor, Maryland and presented for distribution to a Lutheran minister, Pastor Urban, at a service held in his home for his church members and the American "cowboys."

The crew for the first trip was made up completely of Brethren college and seminary students. It was described by Matthew Meyer as "an ideal trip with no black market transactions." They arrived home on July 3.

The second trip, made on the boat the "Cedar Rapids" to Trieste, Italy, was completed between July 9 and August 12. On this trip there were eight hundred and twenty head of cattle and horses.

In Trieste, where they spent four days, the three students saw the opera, "Carmen" in St. Guisto, an open-air theater. They also toured Venice where they visited St. Mark's cathedral, saw the Palace of Digo, and crossed the Bridge of Sighs into the dungeon where Lord Byron received his inspiration for writing some of his poetry. A gondola ride through Venice ended their stay.

Robert Nation, a new student from North Carolina, is the husband of the former Annette Mumma, who completed the two-year secretarial course at E-town in 1944. Annette was one of the Hill's star basketball players.

Freshmen, Upperclassmen Battle in Baseball Games

What ho! Baseball fans, T-E-N-S-H-U-N!!!

While the world series was being won by the die hard Cards—a minor catastrophe took place on the baseball diamond of Elizabethtown college. The freshmen walloped the upperclassmen by the startling score of 5-1.

All was not lost however. The following Thursday the two teams met again, with a gleam of determination in the upperclassmen's eye. It was a gleam of dogged determination too, because on this day, the score took a different turn—a tie game with the score of 1-1. Now the problem is, who will win the last game of the series.

The third game has not yet been announced for a definite day. However, both freshmen and upperclassmen are waiting in suspense for its finality. Students are giving wholehearted support to their respective teams. So baseball fans—don't miss it. May the best team win!!

Schlosser and Kaufman Teach English and Math

A spirit of "let's get on with the job," expresses the attitude of 361 students and 43 faculty members of the GI Area college at William Penn high school in Harrisburg, according to Dr. A. W. Climenhaga, director.

The standard college freshman curricula in the arts sciences, and business are offered, together with engineering, for which the greatest demand exists. Interest in this field is a reflection of mechanical war, Dr. Climenhaga believes.

Dr. Ralph W. Schlosser, head of the English department at Elizabethtown college has been selected to serve in the same capacity at Harrisburg. Prof. Horace Kaufman aug-

Dr. Jesse H. Ziegler Addresses Students on 'Mating or Marriage'

Dr. Jesse H. Ziegler of Bethany Biblical seminary, Chicago, in a chapel address "Mating or Marriage?" given during Christian Life Emphasis week at Elizabethtown college, declared that courtships should be characterized by love, beauty, truth, and self-giving.

Dr. Ziegler in setting up ideas of personal relationships stated, "A Christian should use no exploitation whatever of others in order to satisfy his own desires. Although we see around us many courtships that are not beautiful, a Christian believes that courtship must be beautiful."

"Courtships must also be characterized by truth," said Dr. Ziegler. "You cannot be Christian without being truthful about your feelings. Perfect love is like God. God is love. Love must be dominant if marriage is to be beautiful and Christian."

E-town College Trustees Meet Nov. 22 in Special Session

President A. C. Baugher has announced that the trustees of Elizabethtown college are meeting in a special session on Friday, November 22, at 4 p. m. The trustees and their wives will attend the Lyceum number in a body following dinner in the college dining room.

Ex-Wave Barracks Become Homes For E-town College Servicemen

By a Cub Reporter

Ex-Wave barracks are transformed into homes! No longer are the men in North and South halls traveling the beaten path to the shower room in the gymnasium. Heat and hot water have been added to make life in the dormitories complete.

Army and navy terminology such as sack, chow and babe can still be heard sounding through the halls. G.I. shoes are not all polished and lined neatly under the bed, nor G.I. clothing all buttoned and hung in military style. Rugs on the floor, pictures on the walls (ranging from pin-up girls to fine pieces of art) and bright colored lamps are placed about in the rooms. Even flowered curtains about the windows make the rooms look home-like. One G.I. has a large mirror balanced with a plant on each side.

At the west end of the halls there is a cozy day room with easy chairs, a luxurious shower room, and even a laundry. Bull sessions at times seem to rank higher in priority than studying. North and South halls have all the beauty and color of typical college dormitories.

National Male Quartet Presents E-town's Third Lyceum Program; Music Featured in College Gymnasium on Friday, December 13

National Male Quartet

Gari, MacKay, Sanders, Baggiore to Entertain

The National Male Quartet will be featured as the third lyceum number in the Elizabethtown college gymnasium on December 13, 1946, at 8:30 p. m.

The four members of the quartet, Attilio Baggiore and Giulio Gari, tenors, Vernon Sanders, baritone and Bruce MacKay, bass, are touring under the auspices of the National Concert and Artists corporation. Giulio Gari Giulio Gari, a native of Rumania, studied at the Vendi conservatory in Milan, and made his operatic debut at Rome's Teatro Reale dell'Opera in "The Barber of Seville." In 1945 he made his American debut at the New York city center in Wagner's "The Flying Dutchman."

Edith Daly Speaks in Chapel On World Student Service Fund

"Part of our responsibility as American students is to do something about the bad conditions of students in other countries," stated Miss Edith Daly, representative of the World Student Service Fund in a chapel address, November 11. "The security of our country as well as that of theirs depends on it."

Miss Daly explained that in addition to the problem of lack of food, clothing, equipment and buildings among European and Asiatic students is the problem of facing a larger student body than ever. She

Edgar Bitting Entertains South Hall With His Flute

By Nancy Bucher

Flute sounds burst forth from South hall frequently these days. The first flutist of the Harrisburg Symphony orchestra lives there.

The ambitious young musician, Edgar Bitting, freshman, took up the study of the flute as a hobby when he was in the fifth grade, under Eric Evans, first flutist for John Philip Sousa. During his high school days he played for the Harrisburg Commonwealth band and for the Marysville high school band.

Navy and Flute Study

"I never took the flute seriously until I entered the service in 1943 when I was sent to the Navy school of music in Washington, D. C.," Bitting said. "There I studied under an excellent teacher, who was second flutist for the Philadelphia Symphony."

After being assigned to a twenty piece band he traveled to the west coast and was sent aboard the U. S. S. California, where he directed and played in a concert band. While aboard the ship he started to play the saxophone to enable him to play in a dance orchestra which played in USO's while in United States ports, and also presented a variety show in hospitals, theaters and on other ships in the Pacific area.

The U. S. S. California remained for a short time in the Pacific after the war and because it was too large to pass through the Panama canal, came home by way of the southern tip of Africa, stopping at Singapore, Ceylon and Capetown, which Ed described as "indeed a very beautiful city and a place where I would like to return for a visit."

Seventeen Sock and Buskiners See 'Uncle Vanya' at Hedgerow

"Oh, this is so boring!" But in spite of Yelena Andreyevna's repeated line, the seventeen Sock and Buskin members and Miss Vera Hackman, the club advisor, who attended the performance of "Uncle Vanya" on the night of November 8, found it anything but boring.

The players of the rustic, picturesque Hedgerow theater, a remodeled mill near Media, Pa., gave new meaning to Anton Chekov's masterpiece of Russian life. The Sock and Buskiners enjoyed every minute of the performance, including the coffee served in the lobby during the third intermission and the unique curtain call.

All-Club Night Features Plays, Skits, Speeches

By a Cub Reporter

All the clubs on campus had an opportunity to display their attractions and to lure prospective members on All-Club night, November 15.

Sock and Buskin treated the audience to Helen Rebert's portrayal of an aged female hypochondriac who lost her petticoats to a mischievous peddler, played by Daniel Haldeman. The play, directed by Sara Price, was "The Old Woman and the Peddler." Charles Whitacre added a rustic note with the characterization of a rural

H. M. Book, Instructor in Art, Urges Students to Dream in His Night Class

By a Cub Reporter

A tousled-headed youngster sporting a little blouse and knee pants may find a college atmosphere usually quite depressing, but he would discover a colorful setting and promptly feel at home in the class of public school art.

Indeed, there is a picturesque air about the commercial room on Tuesday evenings. Here, strewn on long tables can be found a patchwork of color schemes, boxes of stout crayons, painting kits and rare palates, and a score of portfolios.

To the youngster, H. M. Book the art instructor, is the tall, quiet, soft spoken man who directs one's creative imagination with IDEAS. These ideas take on all sorts of pattern and color. What may have begun as a host of multi-colored tents becomes likened to the Arabs who folded their tents and silently stole away. For you see this little skipper now has ships a-sailing on the sea!

The purpose of such handiwork is more than to attract little minds. The primary aim is to develop an appreciation for bigger minds. Were this little chap actually in class, he would not have been unmindful of about twenty-four grown-ups who too were putting their tents a-sailing.

A large percentage of these students are going to be teachers of many a tousle-headed youngster. To them color schemes mean more than the finished product. They are striving to develop color in terms of methods, techniques, proportions, and detail.

But teaching elementary art is not the sole purpose of all who assemble. There are a group who are capitalizing on one of the choicest ambitions of any student. It is dreaming in class and getting away with it! Among this group, the dreams of a distant mountain peak, sporting a bonnet of snow, a street scene in Vienna, or a pair of pointers hard-tacked on an unsuspecting bird are materializing very realistically.

Art supplants all moods and tastes from the most simple to the most subtle. It weaves the mind, the heart and the soul in harmony with God and all mankind, Mr. Book and his art students believe.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY

In a recent bull session assembled in North hall a few vets were discussing the seemingly unsettled situation in which this world of ours now finds itself. Only logically, the discussion turned in essence to the question, "Would we want to fight another world war or would we want our children to engage in such a conflict?" Unanimously, the answer was "No." However, this answer was qualified by the clause "Should the situation arise again, we would rejoin the Armed Forces and return to the fighting battle stations to fight for those ideals which we believe are fundamental to a liberty-loving people." This, it is believed, is the attitude of most of the men and women who were members of the armed forces of this country during World War II.

Are these veterans, who so emphatically say "No" to war, but patriotically will defend this country, willing to fight to see that such a situation never comes again when they will have to return to foxholes? Since college men are probably the men who will hold the offices of the government in years to come, it is believed that an organization should be founded on the college campuses to strive for a world organization which will bring about peace and disarmament of the huge standing armies and navies which are a constant threat to peaceful living. Certainly such a group must begin small, but through contacts, confidences, and correspondence with other schools, this organization could grow until it enhances the youth of this United States and further, still, that of other countries as well. Such an organization in the United States, Great Britain, France, Russia, China and many other countries could do a great deal in insisting that their respective diplomats bring about an insurable peace and perhaps a "United States of the World."

The purpose of this organization should be to place more responsible men in positions of leadership. Replace the "warmongers", politicians and dictators with men who aspire to peace, free trade and international understanding of all countries of the world, men who will vote for this thing which the voters desire, international peace.

It seems almost inevitable that such an organization will be founded sooner or later. Shall it begin here on this campus or will you wait, watch and possibly criticize others who try to do this huge job? Veterans, here is an opportunity to put forth as great an effort in winning the peace as you have already demonstrated in winning the war. Time is of the utmost importance. Begin now!!!

MAKE THE BEST OF YOUR TIME

College should be a challenge to you to do your best. Scholastically your aims should be high. Both new and former students realize that this year grade standards have been raised to conform with the requirements of the Middle Atlantic association. This means that more thorough work will be required for good grades.

Don't wait a minute longer to form good study habits! Budget your time and keep your work up to date. Your scholarship depends on you.

Students Express Opinions on Effect Of Vets on School Spirit at E-town

Do you think that the presence of veterans on the campus has affected our school spirit?

Anna Kepner:

Yes, their presence has added a new element of zeal and vigor to life in general on the campus. But only those who have the "give" as well as the "take all" spirit will help Elizabethtown college to have the desired school spirit.

John Dunham:

Veterans are not attending college to indulge in childish performances that some students might include under the heading of "school spirit." Many laws that the Senate ordinarily would have passed or enforced concerning freshmen conduct, etc., have been completely revised. The GI's have had the training and discipline necessary to teach him respect for the group as a whole, an attitude which many freshmen in other times may have lacked.

Ruth Cromie:

Considering what it was around here when I was a freshman and sophomore, the school spirit has changed a great deal. There seems to be more life and spirit and less of the foolish juvenile performance once considered "school spirit."

Jay W. Lehman:

After combat, a man definitely grows up and has no time for tomfooleries that are sometimes called "school spirit," especially if the student is married. Of course the type of school spirit which teaches love for the ideals contained in the song of our Alma Mater is something else again.

Esther Dourte:

There are noticeably more people on the campus. We don't learn to know each other personally as readily as when the school population was smaller. To me school is a type of "family spirit." Nowadays it takes longer for the students to get to know each other than it did before.

Evelyn Lentz:

I think so. We have more school spirit than ever now. To me school spirit is the display of interest in all our extra-curricular activities and in being a general good sport all around. The presence of veterans on the campus has helped this.

The Scribbler

Now that November has finally arrived, and the weatherman has decided that summer has lasted long enough, it is time to begin to think about welcoming cold, snappy winds and little snow flurries. Remember, it's almost Thanksgiving and I have a suggestion to make here. How about changing the popular tune "Pity the Poor Lobster" to "Pity the Poor Turkey" for this month.

Is November an unusual dream month? The reason I ask is because of several peculiar dreams I heard about the past week or two. Some involved Indians, some dream men, but I'd like to let you in on the best one of all. One of the "Fairviewers" went to bed very peacefully one night, ready to settle down to a long undisturbed sleep. She began to dream. Her dream took her to a desirable, but rather odd place—Heaven. There was St. Peter all ready and waiting for her. But—there was one thing she had to do before she could become a permanent resident, and that was to write all her sins on a huge blackboard he had there. She was all ready to begin, when who comes along but her roommate. This called for investigation. "What are you doing here?" she asked. "Oh, I ran out of chalk!" was the reply. Believe it or not, when our Fairview friend awoke the next morning, the fingertips of her right hand were filled with tiny splinters!!! I only wonder where and what she wrote.

This item was reported to me rather indirectly. It seems that two of the fellows from one of the newly erected dormitories were nonchalantly heading toward their rooms when a small black four-legged animal, possessing feline characteristics (commonly known as a skunk) decided to give them a fruitful chase. Brackbill and Graham knew they had been chased, and one whiff told everyone else it was fruitful.

There are several ways of telling that we've put in almost nine weeks of school. One is by the mid-semester exams and quizzes. Everyone seems to have a test or a review in some subject or other. Wouldn't it be so much more convenient if we were all geniuses and wouldn't be the least bit phased when quiz time arrives.

Looks like the scribbler's space is filled for this time. May I close with this little thought extracted from one of the waste baskets:

Whatever you do, whatever you say,

Make somebody happy every day;

Knowledge unused benefits none,

Little kindnesses make life fun.

Your secretary,

THE SCRIBBLER

Campus Flashes

Frances Krebs and Leroy Reinhold, both seniors, announced their engagement on October 27.

The attendance records of the library showed an unusual increase as Professor Hellerich's history students frantically tried to finish their maps and study questions before the deadline on November 8.

"Doctor" Lowell Zuck's Harmonic Symphonic orchestra showed quite a variety of originality in both instruments and selections at the Hallowe'en party. What an orchestra in full dress should wear was also uniquely demonstrated.

There is a new father on campus! Charlie Kamphaus, Baltimore, proudly announces that the name of his seven-pound son is Eric Christian.

South hall has adopted a black bull dog—still unnamed, as its mascot. Professor Kilhefner, however, does not approve of its yearnings for psychological knowledge and had the dog removed when it followed students into general psychology class.

The number of students on campus who can speak Pennsylvania "Dutch" has been growing steadily. Jesse Sheetz and Karl Kolva have just been added to the list.

As weird and strange as Rip Van Winkle's Dutchmen playing ninepins on the mountain, was the midnight football game played by some of the fellows from Memorial hall.

Gladys Weaver and Arlene Kettering have been living at the YWCA in Lancaster while practice teaching near Lancaster—Gladys in the Milton Brecht school, and Arlene doing kindergarten work in the Nathan Schaffer school.

Miss Sara Wolf, Ephrata, member of the class of 1945, spent the weekend of November 2 and 3 on campus.

On the moonlight night of November 2, thirty students hiked over the country roads near Elizabethtown, coming back to the college for a doggie roast by the lake.

All photographers on campus, amateur or otherwise, are requested to enter the contest now being conducted, by submitting snap shots of the college buildings.

Judging by the number of students gathering in the college store these days, it should be given the old Indian name of "Unalyli" "the meeting of friends."

The cheerleaders are having new outfits made for this year's basketball games.

Those in Clyde Weaver's car had a hard time explaining why they returned an hour later than the other groups from the Hedgerow theatre. They said they lost their way and then helped a man change a tire on his car.

Campusology

When Dr. Schlosser was demonstrating pitch in his speech class recently, he reached virtually down to his knees with a booming, bass-voiced, "I'm the Captain of My Soul!" Piped a sotto-voice from the rear: "Sounds like the ship's going down, Captain!"

A vet was watching a campus workman dig a hole. The deeper the hole became, the more interest the vet displayed. A friend, noticing his intentness, at last tapped him on the shoulder and asked, "What's so fascinating about that hole?" Replied the vet, beamingly, "Make a dandy apartment, wouldn't it?"

In the last issue of the ETOWNIAN, one group was listed as having taken a "progressive moonlight hike." Wonder what progress they made?

Overheard in philosophy class: "Theologians enter by different doors, but they all sit down at the same table."

For German students only:

Freshman to senior: "Du bist ein Dumkopf!"

Senior to freshman: "Be more respectful when you address me!"

Freshman to senior: "A thousand pardons, sir. Ihr seit ein Dumkopf!"

One campus professor's definition of a liberal: "A conservative progressive."

Another speech class sally: "Is he trying to imitate Demosthenes with the chewing gum in his mouth?" "That's not chewing gum. He's speaking with his tongue in his cheek."

I've a lot of respect for the intellectual curiosity of philosophers. But it seems to me that sometimes they're the most confused people on earth. They refuse to accept the self-evident and insist on explaining things they themselves don't grasp.

In Chapel: "You're sitting in the wrong seat. You'll be marked absent." "I'm not worried. The Lord knows I'm here."

Freshmen Elect Wilbur Bucher as President of Largest Class R. Brackbill, J. Sheetz and M. Stoner Also Chosen as Officers

Dr. Charles Apgar Chosen Advisor of 182 Students

Wilbur Bucher, Quarryville, an ex-GI living in South hall has been elected president of the freshman class.

The class chose Robert Brackbill, Kinzer, as their vice-president, Mary Stoner, Elizabethtown, secretary, and Jesse Sheetz, Elizabethtown, another veteran, treasurer.

Dr. Charles S. Apgar serves as the advisor of the 1950 class of approximately 182 members, which is the largest in the history of Elizabethtown college.

Four SCM Commissions Plan 1946-1947 Programs

All the commissions of the SCM have now been organized and have planned these programs for the year. They are as follows:

Brethrenism

Chairman, Charles Whitacre; assistant chairman, Raymond Boose; secretary, Marian Shaub; and advisor, Dr. H. G. Bucher.

This group is considering the past, present and future of the Church of the Brethren and plans to carry out Brethren ideas in practical work, such as working a day at the relief center in New Windsor, Md.

LSA

President, Walter Reinecker; secretary, Doris Thatcher; treasurer, Richard Hivner, and advisor, Prof. Mahlon Hellerich.

Missions

Chairman, Sara Swartz; assistant chairman, Jean Young; secretary, June Zimmerman; and advisor, Miss Martha Martin.

Members of this commission gave a program in the Crippled Children's hospital on November 3, and plan to visit the Children's home in Carlisle in the near future.

Recreation

Chairman, Gladys Weaver; assistant chairman, Patricia Mahan; secretary, Donald Hursh; and advisor, Dr. C. S. Apgar.

This commission is discussing the philosophy of recreation and aims to assist each member to become a good recreational leader. They also plan to improve the atmosphere of the game room by adding new equipment.

E-town 'Just Like Home' To Blind Marie Schroyer

A peculiar punching noise is heard in freshman classes. It's Marie Schroyer taking notes on a braille slate, for Marie has been blind since childhood.

Marie, who comes to Elizabethtown from the Western Pennsylvania School of the Blind, which she attended from kindergarten through high school, is preparing to do social work among the adult blind. Marie says, "People who have become blind in their later years feel more handicapped than we who have been blind since childhood. It is those people I want to help."

Marie likes to operate a drill press and hacksaw and delights in weaving. Since coming to Elizabethtown, Marie has had her first lesson in ironing and someday wants to learn how to manipulate the telephone in the business office.

With a cheerful "Hi Ya!" or "Is that my friend, Elsie?" she makes friends quickly. Her parting words are usually, "Bring yourself up to see me." "When I first came to store keeper, and Jean Sharpe had ample opportunity to display her barking talents in the role of the dog.

David Markey directed another group of Sock and Buskin members in a homespun comedy about a battle between a married couple over which one should "Get Up and Bar the Door." Included in the cast were Doris Thatcher, Carrol Spence, Edwin Boll, Fern Sweigart, Patricia Mahan and John Buch.

Mistress of ceremonies for the Sigma Kappa Xi was Atha Lighty. The president of the club, Ruth Cromie, explained the aims and requirements of the organization. A chemical demonstration was given by Walter Gingrich, and Charles Forney reported on the club's social events, including their fishing trip.

The advantages of becoming a Comerciantes member were presented in an original skit written by its president, Doris Witter, Frances Krebs, and Beulah Barnhouse. Included in the skit were the requirements of the club, its purpose, and aims, and some of the activities planned for the year.

E-town, it seemed like such a mob that I thought I would never learn to know these people. Now it is just like home," Marie says.

With her arms laden with braille books, she casually strolls from building to building as though she can see perfectly well where she is going. Really she can only distinguish light from dark. Prior to an operation this summer Marie could not see that much.

When Marie receives her A. B., she is planning to take a two year course at Overbrook School for the Blind in Philadelphia after which she plans to help combine religious and social actions for the adult blind.

ments the staff of the mathematics department. Dr. Climenhaga stressed that the best professional talent from surrounding colleges together with secondary school instructors who hold advanced degrees make up the staff.

Dr. Schlosser is impressed with the maturity and potential abilities of his ex-soldiers. Other instructors feel it a "pleasure to teach" students who do not find the process of education painful.

Among the disadvantages resulting from hurried emergency planning and the general pressures currently upon educational facilities is the shortage of text books and college type laboratory equipment. The text book shortage has been partially solved through the cooperation of nearby colleges, while the large chemistry and physics labs at William Penn are being further equipped.

'46-47 Basketball Season Includes Games With Bethany and Philadelphia Pharmacy

Schedule Opens Dec. 4 Positions Not Definite

The opening weeks of the 1946-47 basketball season will offer several exciting contests to local college fans including games against Pharmacy of Philadelphia, Bethany seminary of Chicago, and Findlay college of Ohio.

The opening game of the season on December 4 pits Coach Ira Herr's men against Pharmacy, an old foe who was dropped from the schedule during the war years. Coach Herr promises that the keen competition for team positions this year will insure a scrappy ball club for the opening game.

The fifty candidates originally reporting for practice have now been narrowed down to about thirty-five with another roster out in prospect, but Coach Herr states, "Positions on the team for the opening game with Pharmacy are anybody's guess."

The December 17 game with Bethany seminary will prove especially interesting for E-town fans because Guy Buch, former E-town star and national high scorer for 1944, is now playing for the Chicago five, and Bethany also boasts Dick Wareham, former Juniata star whom fans will remember from Juniata games in recent years. Bethany's record in the Chicago seminary loop put her in first place there last year, and keen competition can be expected.

Findlay college from Ohio will visit E-town on December 19, providing additional mid-western competition. These games will mark the resumption of intersectional play, interrupted by the war.

Attilio Baggione

An American tenor, Attilio Baggione studied opera in Naples, where he was later a member of the San Carlo Opera company. He has sung in the opera house of Bari and the Royal opera house in Rome.

After singing in Florence, Bologna, Amsterdam, Berne and many other European cities, Baggione returned to America to appear at the Chicago Civic house. He has appeared as soloist with the Chicago Symphony and the Indianapolis Symphony, and has been featured as guest soloist on the Swift, General Motors, and Chase and Sanborn programs.

Vernon Sanders

Vernon Sanders, baritone, was born in Hooper, Nebraska, where he sang in church choirs and local operettas. After graduating from Midland college, Nebraska, he went to San Francisco to become a pupil of Kurt Adler.

Sanders has appeared with the San Francisco Opera company and in Gilbert and Sullivan roles on the Pacific coast. In New York he made his debut at the City center.

Bruce MacKay

Originally from Canada, Bruce MacKay, the bass with the quartet, has lived in the United States most of his life. He attended Romona college, California, and the University of Southern California. In both institutions he sang solos with the glee clubs and choruses.

In 1945 MacKay made his debut as a member of the San Francisco Opera company. He also played six months of Gilbert and Sullivan for San Francisco's Opera company.

INTRAMURALS HELD IN GYMNASIUM; WOMEN START BASKETBALL PRACTICE

Intramurals have begun! Since the first week of November the girls have been reporting to the gym Monday nights and the fellows on Tuesday nights to expell some excess energy in exciting basketball games.

Women's basketball practice started Tuesday, October 29 with a turnout of thirty-five co-eds of which only four are veteran varsity players.

Games are being scheduled with East Stroudsburg, Bridgewater, Lebanon Valley, Albright, St. John's Reading, Wagner and Millersville.

Because of the men's junior varsity team, there will be alternating girls' preliminary games preceding men's varsity games this year. The girls will also hold their contests on Saturday afternoons and at 4:00 p. m. during the week.

Edgar Bitting Entertains South Hall With His Flute

Upon his return to the states he entered the Navy hospital in Philadelphia. After he was discharged on February 21, 1946, Bitting left immediately for Washington, D. C., where he bought a new flute and visited his Navy buddies.

Flutist in Harrisburg Symphony

In September he was chosen from seven competitors for the second flute chair in the Harrisburg Symphony and was recently promoted to the first chair.

"Now," Eddie added, "I find I have little time to study for my classes!" Spending the week-end of November 1 in Philadelphia, he attended the premiere performance of Gesenway's "Concerto for Flute," played by William Kincaid, noted flutist for the Philadelphia Symphony.

College and Music

While attending college, where he is taking up Business Administration preparing to be an economic analyst he is also studying with Harry Houdeshel, solo flutist with the U. S. Navy band.

"My love for music is not strictly symphonic, for I love to listen to good jazz music, but my secret ambition is to play with a big symphony orchestra," Bitting concluded.

Although Eddie is threatened continually to be thrown out of the dorm, he still manages to get his two hours of practice in daily.

FAIRVIEW'S PRIVACY INTERRUPTED BY WANDERING CREW OF PAINTERS

By Beverly A. Lay

"Eek, a man!"

For the past two weeks anyone visiting Fairview was sure to hear that exclamation at least twice a day. Pity the poor Fairview girls, they never knew when they would meet a man walking down the hall or see another hanging at their window on what seemed to be nothing whatsoever.

The explanation? It was really very simple. The dormitory was undergoing a face-cleaning operation. The men were the crew of painters who were redecorating the woodwork on the outside of the building.

Did someone say outside? According to one comment, "they were inside more than out." At any moment a balcony door might be flung open and a paint-speckled worker stroll through the room with a casual "Scuse me."

The late sleepers in particular could expect to be somewhat inconvenienced, for the painters were swarming all over the building at an early hour.

But there was one consolation along with the inconveniences. The Fairview gang has had a wonderful time supervising the job. At least three people would be hanging out of a window or over a balcony at one time giving instructions to the poor heckled painters.

Dr. Stambaugh Envisions Larger and Better Labs

"Now let's see, you add KOH and then heat," and the new chemistry professor of Elizabethtown college begins another lecture. Dr. O. F. Stambaugh who received his education at Lebanon Valley college and Pennsylvania State college, teaches general chemistry and qualitative analysis and supervises the laboratories.

Dr. Stambaugh's hobbies are few, but the one he seems the most interested in is hunting—game and a house. Although he will not admit it, Dr. Stambaugh is a mechanic, for he keeps the staplers of Elizabethtown college in good working order and thereby hopes to gain one for his own private use.

Dr. Stambaugh envisions a larger and more complete laboratory for the college in the future, which he feels the enlarged enrollment demands.

related that of the forty-eight buildings at the University of Warsaw only one escaped bombing. Sixty per cent of Poland's professors died during the war. Miss Daly told of an Italian girl studying medicine at the University of Rome who had never seen a microscope until she came to America.

"Already the WSSF has set up tuberculosis sanitariums and student rest centers. Our money goes for food and clothing because the job of rehabilitating is too great for us to undertake."

Miss Daly, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania for the past year has been serving on the steering committee of the WSSF.

Elizabethtown college will hold its WSSF drive this spring.

Federal Works Agency Transfers Surplus Government Building, Equipment to E. C. Building Will Be Used As Library, Classrooms

The Federal Works agency has announced the transfer of surplus government-owned buildings, furniture and equipment to colleges throughout the country which are enrolling veterans. Among the schools benefitting from this plan is Elizabethtown college.

The government has approved 4,000 square feet of space for this college, to be used for additional library and classroom facilities for a period of time not less than six years. The building—or buildings—are an outright grant, while the

God Is the First and Last Fact In Universe, Harper Will Relate

Dr. R. C. Harper, who will be speaking on the subject, "In the Beginning God," at the annual Bible institute held on November 22-24, said, "The first fact in our life and in our universe is God."

Using a quotation from H. G. Wells, "Until a man finds God and is known of God, he has no beginning and no end," the Rev. Will pointed out that a good many people have tried to live without God and have found it is utterly impossible to lead a happy life.

Nine Students Qualify For Dean's Honor List

Dean H. G. Bucher announced that the following have earned grades which entitle them to be on the dean's honor list at the end of the first half of the first semester: seniors, David Markey; juniors, Emma Engle, Jane Lott; sophomores, Mark Bartman, Charles H. Kamphaus, Robert Leidner, Ruth Zimmerly; freshmen, William Davis, Orville Schwanger, jr.

A rating of 2.5 or better determined by dividing the total number of quality points by the total number of semester hours qualifies a student for the dean's list.

H. Kauffman Considers Physics A Practical Application of Math

By a Cub Reporter

As Prof. Horace A. Kauffman explains an equation in basic mathematics or makes simple a difficult physics problem, proof is given for his statement, "I like teaching."

Coming from New Cumberland every day, Professor Kauffman helps students unravel the problems of physics and college mathematics. A graduate of Susquehanna university, he has done graduate work at Temple university and also at Pennsylvania State college. Professor Kauffman teaches at the GI Area college in Harrisburg two days a week.

Professor Kauffman likes physics because "It is practical application of mathematics." He believes that mathematics can become very tiresome if the student does not see the many practical everyday applications which the subject can afford.

Board of Trustees Adopt TIAA Retirement Plan

The Board of Trustees of Elizabethtown college established a retirement plan with the Teachers Insurance and Annuity association at the November 22 meeting of the Board.

The TIAA is a life insurance company incorporated in 1918 in New York. It was organized at the suggestion of the Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching to write life insurance and annuity contracts for staff members of colleges and universities incorporated in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland.

Annual Christmas Semi-Formal Banquet Held December 18 for Boarding Students

College to Sponsor All Student Affair in May

The annual semi-formal Christmas banquet will be held Wednesday, December 18, at 6 p. m., in the college dining room.

Christmas vacation begins December 20 at noon and ends January 2 at 10 a. m.

Edwin Boll, president of the Student Senate has appointed the following committees to arrange for the banquet: invitation, Edna Bohner, chairman, Romaine Evans, Ruth Zimmerly; Menu, Reba Sebelist, chairman, Elberta Box, Robert Hoffman, Clyde Shallenberger; program, Clifford Huffman, chairman, Phyllis Druck, Robert Leidner, Doris Thatcher.

Due to the lack of space in the dining room caused by the increased enrollment, the college has to limit invitations to boarding students only. Plans are being made to have a banquet for all students out-of-doors, sometime in May.

ETOWNIAN Awarded First Class Or Excellent Rating by A.C.P.

In a critical analysis of college newspapers published recently by the Associated Collegiate press, the ETOWNIAN was rated first class or excellent.

The Associated Collegiate press evaluates school publications of America on a comparative basis. The papers are classified according to the method of publication, the type of school, enrollment of the school, and frequency of issue.

Through the rating it receives, each school staff can learn how its work stands in relationship to that of other schools of the same classification.

The ETOWNIAN, along with twelve other school papers, received first class rating in the group of thirty-six monthly college publications of the second semester of 1945-1946.

Brubaker, Kiscaden, Spence and Zuck To Represent College at U.N. Model

Elizabethtown Students Relate Previous Christmas Experiences

Christmas of 1946 invites comparison of other Christmases among students at Elizabethtown.

Walter Goodman, a freshman who served in the Navy, spent Christmas 1944 at the Waipio Point Amphibious Training base, Pearl Harbor, where he was attending a refresher school and resting after the Saipan-Titian operation.

"That Christmas was not so cheerful, even though I had reason to be glad to be alive," Walter stated, "for though the meal we had was sufficient in quantity and quality, an air of gloom reigned."

Richwine in New Guinea

Also spending a Christmas in the Pacific area, Albert Richwine related that on December 25, 1943, the temperature in the interior of New Guinea was well over 100° and the humidity equally unbearable.

Due to the sinking of the fresh food ship they had to make the best of a banquet with their usual rations. A religious service was held for all in a large airplane hangar. "We were aware of the season from within us," added Albert, "even though external conditions were not indicative of the Yule spirit."

Lehman in England

On the other side of the globe Earl Lehman was spending his Christmas in the home of an English merchant seaman and his family.

"Even with great limitations," Earl stated, "they shared with me a

Students Urged by Dean To Consult Professors

Dean H. G. Bucher announced that students desiring counsel are urged to consult with the professors in their major fields of interest. "The instructors will be happy to be of assistance in problems dealing with the students' future vocational plans," Dr. Bucher stated.

Students are also urged to feel free to make appointments with Miss Effie Shank, secretary to Dr. Bucher, for interviews with him to confer on any problems they may wish to discuss.

Student Assembly to Meet At Swarthmore, April 3-6

Four students will represent Elizabethtown college at a United Nations Model assembly to be held at Swarthmore college April 3-6, including students representing colleges from the eastern United States.

Mary Brubaker, Russel Kiscaden, Carrol Spence and Lowell Zuck under the direction of Prof. Mahlon Hellerich will represent a particular nation, present speeches and enact business with other student representatives according to the U.N. procedure.

The model assembly, sponsored by the Committee for the United Nations, is one of several to be held in the United States in order to familiarize future leaders with the methods and ideals of the United Nations.

"The administration and faculty have two purposes in mind in this"

states Prof. Hellerich. "The first is to increase student interest in international cooperation. The second is to bring students from Elizabethtown college in contact with students from other colleges."

Pennsylvania Organizes Network Of Radio Stations for Schools

Professor Ulma Goodall, chairman of the Pennsylvania state committee for education by radio, announces that plans are now on the governor's desk for the organization of a state network of FM radio stations to be used exclusively by educational institutions of Pennsylvania—elementary, secondary, college, and adult education—for improving the educational facilities of the state.

According to this plan, a key station would be located in Harrisburg which would send programs of educational nature to all parts of Pennsylvania via this network of stations, and would be operated by the state education department.

If this plan is adopted, educational institutions all over the state will be able to originate noteworthy programs, feeding them to the entire network through arrangements with the key station program department in Harrisburg.

Spiritual Rehabilitation of the World Calls for Reform of Each Man's Morals

This letter by Howard A. Rusk, M. D., received by Dr. A. C. Baugher, represents the totality of spiritual rehabilitation:

"My name is John Crown. I am a paraplegia at Halloran General hospital. My physical wounds are very small in comparison with my spiritual wounds. I have come back from death to a world that I no longer care for. I, who have been engaged in the great struggle to save the world from tyranny and having seen my comrades die for this cause, can now find no peace in the world or in my country.

Having lived close to death for two years, the reasons why there is no peace seem infinitesimally flimsy. Russia wants the Dardanelles, Yugoslavia wants Trieste, the Moslems want India, labor wants more wages, capital wants more profit, Smith wants to pass the car in front of him, Junior wants more spending money. To these, I say, is it necessary to kill and cripple human beings for these petty gains?

Anyone who thinks a human body is so cheap that it can be traded for a tract of land, a piece of silver, or a few minutes of time should be forced to listen to the moans of the dying night and day for the rest of his life.

All the troubles of the world originate in the common man. The selfish and greedy ways of nations are just the ways of each individual man multiplied a hundredfold. When the morals of the common man drop, so do the morals of the nation and of the world.

As long as our individual morals remain at a low ebb, so will be the world. Until each of us stops 'hogging the road' with his car, stops fighting over the seat on the bus, stops arguing over who is going to cut the grass, there will be no peace in the world. If man wishes peace again, he must return to the great commandment, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself for the love of God.'

Christmas - "Peace on earth good will to men" - calls for this spiritual rehabilitation of loving our neighbors.

Joy to the World The Lord Is Come

BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN

How much of the iron curtain theory is true?

Winston Churchill coined a phrase which has traveled around the world when he spoke of the "iron curtain" which is separating eastern and western Europe. He said that the Russians had drawn it around the countries they occupy and behind that curtain of censorship and bayonets they are building up a communist tyranny and the silent terror of the "police state."

According to Dr. Ralph Sockman, the speaker at a recent lyceum program, the "iron curtain" is the result of misunderstanding between Russia and the rest of the world—a misunderstanding that need not exist.

Here in America all we hear about Russia are wild rumors of another war. In Russia, Dr. Sockman stated, they hear only about the O.P.A. lynchings and strikes in connection with the United States. As long as these distorted conceptions remain how can we hope for mutual understanding and friendship?

"PEACE ON EARTH, GOOD WILL TO MEN"

"Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men" is the spirit of Christmas. How can this spirit be obtained and used in its correct meaning?

The world is now in a state of rehabilitation, which is both spiritual and physical and invokes justice among all races, religions and creeds.

The problems of the world today have their roots in human nature. The world is supposedly now at peace, but is it practicing good will in terms of the other person? Everyone should examine himself and analyze himself in terms of good will and justice.

First, what is good will? People of good will would be classed as those honest, hard working people who desire peace, justice, democracy and kindness and supplant these qualities with intelligence.

Susan Anthony, a great advocate of women's rights, has well expressed the correct use of good will in these words: "To desire liberty for one's self is a natural instinct . . . but to be willing to accord liberty to another is the result of education, of self discipline, of the practice of the Golden Rule."

Good will, the ability to think above and beyond one's special prejudices and one's own small personal prejudices, begins right within oneself. It begins here at college in relations with other students both in and outside of the classroom. It calls for willingness to have open minds and tolerate the opinions of others. The honor system, although a personal matter, is important in so much as relations with oneself, with one's national and international friends must be based on justice. "God made us neighbors: let justice make us friends."

Many people are doers of good within their limit of thinking, but beyond that are intolerant and prejudiced. Everyone is sick of war and of prejudice. But is he sick of his own? The answer lies within each one. The answer calls for action and thinking. This Christmas all must think and work to obtain their ends. The challenge belongs to everyone and can be met only when it is realized that good will must be accompanied by intelligent action.

CHRISTMAS

By Jean Sharpe

The whole world pauses for Christmas,
Warms herself by the fireplace,
Laughs with her children,
Delights in the tinsel,
Lifts her face to the Star,
Hears the clear deep bells singing in her heart—
Ringing over and over
As long as Christmas keeps coming.

The Scribbler

Just why every student should return from his Thanksgiving holiday demonstrating a rigorous TURKEY TROT is beyond the best explanation of any gobbler gossip. But Mr. Webster in his most taciturn moment will admit that the turkey trot is in effect a ragtime dance, danced with the feet well apart and with a rise on the ball of the foot, followed by a drop on the heel.

Among our well-bred expositors, Meleagris Gallopavo—Mr. Gobbler, of course—would blame it on the general atmosphere of the occasion. Maybe he is right! That cold north wind was difficult to keep in step with. However, the party responsible for keeping our pace down to a TROT, well that boiled down to Mr. Gallopavo himself. Didn't we all feel like stuffed turkeys!

The long narrow ventilator shaft which enters into some nineteen habitats of South hall, finds itself occasionally lending to eerie dispositions. Perchance some glibly-mastered pratter is followed with a profusion of laughter, the shaft is about to give vent with many a "shutter." There is bound to follow that wierd high-pitched cry, I CAN'T STAND IT. Surely it isn't because an echo down the hall is complaining about his ACHIN' BACK! But with South hall living in family fashion, the truth will out itself, especially when one of its members takes up the domestic shout of, COM'ON HOME YOUR MUDDER'S CALLIN'.

The discussion in rural sociology class centered about family expenditures. Various items of current consumption were commented upon in a very agreeable manner. As the class hit upon the matter of strong drink, and the part it played, the following discussion took place:

Mr. Straw: Well, sir, drinking plays a very large part in the city of Lancaster. As a matter of fact, I made a special study of it Thanksgiving eve.

Professor Kilhefner: Tell me Mr. Straw, did you go around visiting all of the homes?

Mr. Straw: No, sir, I made a visit of all the bars!

A lot of BURP can come out of a bottle of soft drink, but did you ever stop to realize what amount of FERMENT can come of empty bottles! Directly before the Thanksgiving holiday, a call was made for those ornamental "bottlenecks" which held up efficient store management. Nevertheless, they continued to decorate anything from waste paper baskets to balcony hide-aways.

When our vacation began, the girls from Fairview departed much like the rest of us, and with the assurance everything would be under lock and key. It was. On returning, many a fair lass's hope was bottled. At least one

Campus Flashes

Individual photographs and group pictures of the various organizations for the year book have been taken.

Marian Shaub has been having strange bedfellows lately. She awoke one night to find a little mouse between the bed-springs and mattress.

After many weeks of careful watering and watching, Ernie Ganz was finally rewarded by tiny sprouts from the narcissus bulbs he keeps in his room.

Carroll Spence and Sara Price have spent several days substituting teaching in the Cornwall high school.

As Towser in "The Old Woman and the Peddler," Jean Sharpe made a remarkably realistic looking dog in Mr. Winter's winter underwear.

A few brave skaters tried the ice on the lake as soon as it had frozen, although they said, "It wavered."

When Doctor Bucher came to observe one of the practice teachers at Maytown high school, one of the students said, "Is that her husband?" One day the same teacher asked her English class, "What's a metaphor?" "For cows," answered a pupil very seriously.

Robert Hollinger, a freshman, has left school to join the Marines.

The walls of South hall proved to be quite fragile when Bill Withers tried to demonstrate that he is really tall and by jumping too high, knocked a hole through the ceiling of his room.

The engagement of Sara Wolf, of the class of '45 and Robert Hoffman, a sophomore, was announced on November 20.

The new cheer, "The Atom Bomb" becomes rather breathtaking when Ray Boose performs a backward hand-spring, assisted by Jack Stauffer.

Campusology

Discussing next semester's course, "I'm afraid to take mathematics under the professor. He always has axioms to grind."

One Professor's comment: "Our students dress very modestly. But some of them should cover their heads. Their minds are bare."

Some people are humbly humble. Some are pompously humble. Some are truly humble.

During the "intelligence" tests for freshmen in the gym, one proctor called the assembly to attention with a sharp whistle. Quote a student: "He must have drilled a hole between his teeth when he was little."

In Typewriting class: (Student discovering he has made several errors) "Somebody moved the keys!"

There are several types of students. One accepts learning so long as it's thrown at him, as the zoo keeper does fish to the seal. He'll starve intellectually when he leaves school. Another devours his knowledge indiscriminately, as a goat on a rubbish pile, but without the goat's fortitude. He gets mental indigestion. The most admirable is the one who, like the lion, selects his truth, hunts it down and defends it against all comers.

What formality at E-town College! Everyone is called "Miss" or "Mister." Even the college year has two "seminsters."

Pun-ishment (for philosophy students only): "He seems never to Locke for questions." "I know. That's one of his Hobbes."

With apologies to Edmond Rostand's Cyrano De Bergerac:

Six Students Represent E-town College At SCM Conference, McPherson, Kansas

Discussions Concerned With World Brotherhood

From November 27 to December 1, Gladys Weaver, Sara Swartz, Charles Whitacre, David Markey, Lowell Zuck and Clyde Weaver, represented the Elizabethtown Student Christian movement at the national SCM conference held on the campus of McPherson college, McPherson, Kansas.

One hundred and twenty-four students from Brethren colleges all over the United States were registered.

Discussions based on "World Brotherhood," the theme of the conference were led by Wilbur Beahm, professor of religion at Juniata college; Dr. C. Ernest Davis, president of La Verne college; Dr. Paul Macy, secretary of the World Council of Churches; Miss Noma Jensen, representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Donald Snider, national youth director of the Church of the Brethren; Edward K. Ziegler, professor of Bible at Manchester college; Bob Tully, professor of physical education at Bethel college and Gordon Shull, representative of the Student World Government movement.

Problems of world government, world council of churches and race relations were discussed. Some time was spent in recreation and learning folk games.

Next year the conference will be held on the Elizabethtown campus with Ira Gibbel, a student at Bethany Biblical seminary and a graduate of E-town, as president and Doreen Crist, Manchester college, as secretary-treasurer.

typical American dinner which included roast fowl and all the trimmings. After dinner we sat around the fireplace and talked, which drew me as close to home and loved ones as possible."

Schwanger in Australia

Orville Schwanger's first Christmas in the army was spent in the home of a middle-aged woman in Brisbane, Australia, whom he had known for three weeks. "It made us feel good to know that here in a foreign land there were people willing to open their homes to American servicemen so that they might not feel so keenly being away from home on this the best day of the year," replied Orville.

Lehman in Italy

"I was quite sure I would not be up for the combat mission Christmas day; ordinarily, I would have been flying, but they take it easy on crews who have just recently been shot down and returned to flying status," began Jay W. Lehman, who was stationed in Italy at this time. The crew was quite jolly as they sat around the "one-hundred octave" fire relating their past Christmas experiences. At nine o'clock Jay and his buddy went to chapel held in what was formerly an oxen stable. "We spent the rest of the day dreaming of the evening meal and home, and before retiring one of the crew members decided to make a trip to 'Operations' to have a look at the flight schedule for tomorrow's mission. That did it! He came back with sad news and so the candles went out early in our tent," concluded Jay.

Cry of 'Hit 'Em Again' Silenced When Car Bumps New Studebaker

"Hit 'em again!! Hit 'em again!!" rose from the backseat each time a bump appeared on the highway between Elizabethtown and McPherson, Kansas. It never failed until... Almost home, the ice-covered roads caused the car to glide into the rear of a new Studebaker and all was quiet on the backseat. "Hit 'em again" failed to come.

Five SCM Commissions Work to Spread Good Will

"Good will is the one and only asset that competition cannot undersell or destroy."

Social Action

The Social Action commission placed a barrel in the college store in which students can drop their coins to help in the relief project for Europe. They visited the mental hospital at Harrisburg and are now planning to give a program at the Old Folks' home at Neffsville some Wednesday evening.

LSA

The new officers of the LSA are: president, Robert Brackbill; vice-president, Jesse Sheetz; treasurer, Karl Kolva; and secretary, Doris Thatcher. The LSA is planning to participate in Lutheran World Action movement which is a world-wide relief drive.

Missions

The Missions commission spent a week end doing work at the orphanage at Carlisle. They presented a program at the Crippled Children's hospital at Elizabethtown and are now making scrapbooks for the children at the orphanage for Christmas.

Brethrenism

E-town's Gray Ghosts Begin '46-47 Season With 59-46 Victory Over Phila. Pharmacy

Team Drops 62-43 Verdict To Bloomsburg Huskies

Getting off to a fine start in the 1946-47 season, the Elizabethtown varsity subdued Philadelphia Pharmacy 59-46, although they dropped a hard-fought 62-43 verdict to the Bloomsburg Huskies.

Frank Keath showed mid-season form in the Pharmacy game scoring thirty-one points as the E-town lads poured it on in the second period. By running up a 31-18 halftime score, the Gray Ghosts held a lead which was not too seriously threatened thereafter.

E-town tried desperately to overcome an 18-34 halftime handicap against Bloomsburg making a valiant third period effort, but the Huskies had a little too much offensive and defensive strength. Bayer scored twenty-four fancy points for the visitors as Keath and Hivner led for the local men with thirteen and eleven.

FOOD PRICES NOW NEARLY DOUBLE LAST YEAR'S, SAYS K. EZRA BUCHER

By a Cub Reporter

Food prices have soared skyward until they are nearly double what they were last year at this time, according to records of the business manager, K. Ezra Bucher. Yet students have not found it necessary to tighten their belts noticeably, nor have they had to absorb the increase in prices. The same board rates still prevail as did before the upsurge in prices, and at the same time the same standards of food quality—and quantity—have been maintained in spite of scarcities and increased prices.

During the recent meat shortage the college managed to purchase a hog and butcher it for consumption.

The purchase files reveal that milk is 4c higher than last year at this time; frankfurters, 21c higher—they were 27c last year; beef, 26c more per pound; butter, 37c more; liver, 27c more; and bacon cannot be obtained.

Feeding approximately 165 students, the college uses 114 gallons of milk weekly, 75 quarts of soup per meal, 12 dozen muffins for one breakfast, 132 loaves of bread per week, 14 pounds of macaroni for one meal and 18 quarts of dessert for one meal.

COED VARSITY LOSES TO ST. JOHN'S IN FIRST GAME OF '46-47 SEASON

A battle with St. John's of Reading on Saturday night, December 7, opened the co-ed's varsity season. Although the E-town girls did not lead in the score through the game, they managed to climb within two points of their opponents during the third quarter. The game ended in a 21-29 decision.

The starting line-up for E-town consisted of Frances Krebs, Ruth Cromie and Nancy Bucher as forwards and Audrey Kopp, Patricia Mahan and Jeanne Grubb as guards. Colleen Taylor and LaRue Monn substituted for forwards.

The next varsity game is scheduled for December 19 with Bethlehem Business college to be played on the home floor.

On December 4 the junior varsity took on the Cornwall high school girls in a thriller which ended in a two-point victory for E-town with a score of 18-16. It was a close battle with Cornwall in the lead until the last quarter.

VARSITY TO PLAY LEBANON VALLEY, FINDLAY, SHEPHERD, BRIDGEWATER

By Lowell Zuck

Following their last 1946 game with Findlay of Ohio on December 19, the E-town varsity has an interesting January schedule of home games including Bridgewater from Virginia, Shepherd from West Virginia, and an old rival, Lebanon Valley.

Bridgewater, the third Brethren school on the roster this year with Bethany and Juniata, will provide good competition on January 4, and Shepherd, a newcomer to E-town's basketball courts this year, will offer a big question mark for January 7. The Lebanon Valley game on January 11 will test whether or not the Flying Dutchmen from Annville have come up with another fine team.

In addition, Coach Ira Herr's men will travel to Dickinson in Carlisle, to St. Joseph's in Philadelphia, and return to Bloomsburg, during a busy January schedule.

CARL FINK NAMED CHAMPION IN PING PONG TOURNAMENT

Anything can happen in a ping pong tournament. One player won a point on his knees on the table; another fell flat on the floor but regained his equilibrium in time to claim the next point.

In the tournament between the men on campus, Carl Fink was declared the champion. The semi-finals, seven games each, were played between Matthew Meyer and Kenneth Hetrick and between Carl Fink and Harvey Brandt. The finals, a series of seven games, were played between Kenneth Hetrick and Carl Fink.

In a spirit of fun and keen competition twenty-two fellows entered into the contest: David Markey, Charles Whitacre, Charles Brandt, Donald Krebs, Thomas Fiaschetti, Gilbert Gottshall, Carl Fink, Warren Kissinger, Robert Willoughby, Walter Gingrich, Ray Boose, Harvey Brandt, Burnell, Rebert, Kenneth Hetrick, Jack Stauffer, Frank Keath, Paul Alwine, Charles Forney, Donald Hursh, Matthew Meyer, Clyde Weaver and Lowell Zuck.

The retirement plan will become effective January 1, 1947.

The senior squad with Ray Boose as the only new member, includes Patricia McCarty, captain, Kathleen Baugher, Maxine Bowman and Jack Stauffer.

Because of the assistance of Mrs. Joseph Kettering of Elizabethtown, in making new uniforms, the senior cheerleading squad was able to don their new blue and gray outfits for the opening game with Philadelphia Pharmacy, on Wednesday night, December 4.

Mary Bense and Anita Fridinger have been elected junior cheerleaders to lead the cheering during men's junior varsity and women's games.

A number of new cheers have been worked out by the squad but they would appreciate contributions from the students, including new cheers and new songs.

"Better Late Than Never" Questioned by Students

by Helen Rebert

"Better late than never," may be a good saying, but when used in relation to semester tests it is questionable to students. Because of the delay in starting school, semester tests are being held from January 23 through January 31, two weeks later than the original plan.

Right now everyone's main worry is trying to find enough time to cram for their exams. Here is one method which is used quite frequently—

Intend to go to bed early, around 10 o'clock (actually you turn out the light about 12 or 12:30). Set the alarm for 5 or 5:30 in the morning. Toss for about an hour worrying because you don't know a thing and and you're scared to death you won't hear the alarm. Finally sleep. Dream about having the exam paper returned to you with a large "F" on the upper right-hand corner. The

This is to be a temporary emergency structure to be used not less than six years, covering the anticipated height of G.I. enrollment.

Construction will begin just as soon as the building is taken apart and transferred to the campus.

United Nations

"...To reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person, in the equal rights of men and women and of nations large and small... To practice tolerance and live together in peace with one another as good neighbors..." These are among the aims expressed in the Charter of the United Nations.

We do not wish to experience again the heart-rendings, the fear, the horror, the suffering, and the ruins of the past war years. The United Nations has been organized in the hope that the peoples of the world may live together as friendly neighbors much more realistically than in the past. Perhaps UN has a far more difficult problem than Trieste, disarmament, atomic energy control, or any other giant which may loom in the horizon.

A national educational leader recently told of a little boy who remained with his father while his mother attended a PTA meeting. The little fellow didn't have anything to captivate his interest, so he became very annoying to his father who wanted to read the newspaper. Finally the father clipped a man of the world from the paper, cut it into small pieces, and told his son to put it together. The father hoped he had solved the problem for both his son and himself. In a short time Bobby interrupted with another question. The father was surprised to learn that the map was finished. Puzzled he asked, "How did you do it so quickly?" "Well, you see, there was a picture of a man on the other side," explained Bobby. "I just put him together and the world came out all right."

Back of all our problems, individual, national, and international is the problem of man himself. UNO can hope to achieve its worthy purposes and goals only when the peoples represented are victors on the fronts of their personal lives and are pledged to live together harmoniously with mutual respect, understanding, and good will. Suspicion and hatred must give way to the law of love. Will we be the quality of world citizens needed so that peace on earth to men of good will may come?

(This editorial was written by Mary Brubaker, guest editor of the month).

College Enrollment

Dr. Francis G. Cornell, Chief of the Research and Statistical Service of the United States Office of Education, Federal Security Agency, recently announced that more than two million students, a fifty per cent increase over the precious peak enrollment are now attending the 1,749 colleges and universities of the United States. This number does not include students enrolled in extension or correspondence courses.

Dr. John Dale Russell, Director of the Higher Education Division of the Office of Education commented thus on this record enrollment: "The present student load... has heavily taxed the resources of almost all higher educational institutions in providing adequate staff, housing and classroom facilities."

This year there are 1,073,000 veterans enrolled. More women, 667,000, are attending college this year than ever before.

What do all these facts mean? The question to be determined is whether the expansion of college facilities has been sufficient to accommodate all qualified persons, veterans and non-veterans, seeking admission to college.

The Scribbler

Have you noticed Hans Brinker and his gang on campus? Our web-footed friends, the ducks, seem to have sensed the situation. At least they appear quite flabbergasted while their less-feathered friends torture themselves in maintaining some sort of dignity.

The inner circle of shoe runners claim Curtis Bucher is plenty smooth on his "silver skates." Among other members of the Brinker family, Charles Kamphaus, Edward Biting, Bob Brackbill and Jesse Sheetz cut the ice deeply with their dashing slants. There are also some relatives of the Brinker family who show a POLISHED FINISH, both afore and aft. But that is no reflection on the up-and-coming intentions of Janice Anderson, Dale Sherr or Harold Mohler.

To Mr. and Mrs. Duck and family, perhaps the most bewildering spectacle is Ernie Gantz sledding on all fours over the ice. They are especially attracted to his swan dive. However, they know a photographer is nearby, so they admit it's all a lot of quackery.

It has often been said that a rolling stone gathers no moss, but the elements of nature don't always work out that way. Take for instance that four-foot snow ball which strolled up to block the entrance to Fairview hall. That Mr. four-by-four looked as though he really got around.

Speaking of getting around, it looked like a merry chase took place around Alpha hall and Fairview hall following a recent snowfall. Those women certainly must have been fortifying the place, at least they proved to be a vigorous lot when they let fly a volley of snowballs.

A Sherlock Holmes in disguise has reminded everyone that all those tell-tale footprints about the women's dormitories were not of vest pocket size. "The disguise" kind of figured this from the onset when powder puff pangs brushed across the window pane. It wasn't long before these powder puffs were finding their way through every conceivable opening. One Fairviewer, whose curiosity overtook her, opened the window to find herself deluged in snow. Said she, "Why it seemed as though they never missed!" In one instance the snowball was so momentum-ly excited, it couldn't wait for the window to open. But for all the feudin' which took place, it bears out that Achilles' heel is still a vulnerable one, that is if one is susceptible to sore feet and blisters.

Jane Hernley is hardly aware of her abilities. Not only is she taking a full course of studies, but she gives due attention to extra-curricular activity. What she didn't know was that she could take shorthand while asleep. One morning, someone pointed out the ink markings on her neck. Miss Hernley cagely remarked that she slept on her pen. Confidentially, there might be a revolution in learning under our very pillow!

Recently, Dr. Schlosser was calling the roll in English class. No response from a fellow named Withers caused him to repeat the name with lifted eyebrows. No response from Withers. A third and more emphatic call combined with some student assistance brought Willie bounding to his feet. Willie said that must have been some carry over value from psychology class.

P. S. — We didn't know Professor Kilhefner was developing some first-rate hypnotists!

Campusology

Student examining skeleton of catfish in science lab: "Purr-fect!"

One of our student preachers told this story: A man put a nickel into the church collection plate. The next day he called the minister and told him he was mailing the church a sizeable check. The minister blessed him for his generosity and the surprise in the minister's voice led the donor to explain: "Last night I had a dream I was lost in a forest. I took refuge in the hole of a tree. Suddenly the tree began to shrink and the hole contracted so much that I couldn't get out." "Well, how did you get out?" asked the minister. "Oh," replied the other, "I thought of my contribution, and suddenly I felt very small!"

A man was accosted by the devil who took him down to Hades. As the man stared, he saw the devil light up his fires and sharpen his pitchfork. "W-what are you going to do to me?" the man cried in horror. The devil smiled maliciously. "You tell me. It's your dream isn't it?"

One of our student editors is going to write a book called "Two Years Before the Masthead."

Senior to Freshman: "Quiet, lout!"

Freshman to Senior: "Quiet, not so lout!"

Student to Professor: "I repeated one of your epigrams the other day and now I've got a reputation for being brilliant."

Professor to Student: "You not only quoted me, you imitated me."

Professor Schlosser: "Kant teaches that duty is indicated by that inward voice."

Student: "But many peoples' inward voices speak in different languages!"

Purely Personal

The little blindfolded boy with his darts and quiver has been very busy around Elizabethtown college recently and especially over Christmas vacation.

The engagements of Doris Witter and William Demuth, Patricia McCarty and Robert Shiffer, and Albert Richwine and Jean Yoder of Belleville, have been announced.

The following have been married recently: Orville Schwanger and Jean Leibfried on November 27 in Elizabethtown; Junior Dart and Joanne Weimer on November 30 in Bel Air, Maryland; Francis Johnson and Peggy Walsh on December 21 in Atlantic City; George Hitz and Marjorie Mae Bowman, in Lemoyne, Pennsylvania, also on December 21; Benjamin Hess and Elma Mae Fohl on December 23 in Springfield, Missouri; and Raymond Boose and Mary Elizabeth Stauffer on December 30 in Baltimore, Maryland.

Campus Flashes

Carl E. Heilman, former professor of mathematics and physics and assistant coach at Elizabethtown college, visited the campus recently and attended the E-town-Bridgewater basketball game.

The college basketball team has been receiving publicity on most of its recent games through Harrisburg's WHP "Spotlight on Sports."

Warren Kissinger, Charles Forney, and Donald Hursh spent December 31 at the World Church Service Center at New Windsor, Maryland, helping to pack clothing for shipment overseas.

Ruth Gettel ate her Christmas dinner on the lawn of her Sebring, Florida home and then came back to Elizabethtown to find the campus covered with snow.

Dr. R. W. Schlosser's recording of four Pennsylvania Dutch readings was broadcast recently over station WLAN in Lancaster. It was also played in Lebanon at "Dah Deutsch Fersammlung" to an audience of twelve hundred people.

The college male quartet also sang over station WLAN on January 6 and will now broadcast regularly each Sunday at 3:00 P. M.

Sara Swartz, acting as chauffeur for one of the college trustees and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. J. Linwood Eisenberg, spent part of her holidays in Orlanda, Florida. She returned home by train.

Miss Martin has a unique way of waking sleepers in her classes. When Harvey Brandt fell asleep in her 7:40 Bible survey class, she said to the person beside him, "Wake up that brother back there."

Dorothy Pfaltzgraff, a former two-year student now in the office of Dr. Maurice Wentz in York, recently visited the campus.

Doreen Crist, a former student of E. C., recently played Elizabeth Barrett in the "Barretts of Wimpole Street" given at Manchester college, Indiana where she is a junior.

Elizabethtown Students Express Opinions On Question of Approval of Honor System

Do you approve the honor system? This question was asked of a number of students at Elizabethtown. In presenting this question, the interrogators made it clear that such problems as: self-grading of papers, absence of monitors during examinations, self-reporting of cuts and latenesses, and willingness to take responsibility for the next student's honesty were involved. The answers were quite varied.

KATHRYN E. LONG: The honor system would be a good thing and would work provided the students cooperated. There is no harm in trying it. However, before it is officially established, it should be preceded by a general presentation and broad discussion so that everyone could understand its implications, would be prepared to accept it, and would cooperate in making it effective.

RUSSELL KISCADEN: I wonder whether our students have come far enough to make such a plan workable here. It seems to me that they would have to be educated to it. Of course, fundamentally, when a person cheats, he is not cheating others so much as himself. It wouldn't hurt to give it a try. But still, there might be some who wouldn't help it work. On the whole, however, I believe that most of the students would be in favor of it.

HAROLD BRACKBILL: It would work with some people, but not with others. If a student would be honest under that system, and did not achieve desirable grades, but found others getting better grades only by virtue of their cheating, he'd be pretty much discouraged. There would then be a tendency for the whole edifice to collapse.

LLOYD MARKS: I don't approve of the honor system. It would operate well for the honest students, but not with the dishonest ones. As a result, such a system would lose its meaning. If it were put into practice, there should be a system of checks, to check-up on any dishonesty. But in that case, it would no longer be a real honor system.

DORIS WITTER: In instances where students grade their own papers, or each other's papers, the plan would be workable provided the type of answers required were those which could be easily judged. As for self-reporting in cuts, some might be moved to take advantage of this, by forgetting to report. It would be so convenient to forget. Personally, in this respect, I'm in favor of the system of attendance which allows unlimited cuts. After all, the person who cuts, is only hurting himself.

HARVEY BRANDT: I am definitely in favor of the honor system. I feel that whenever a young man or woman enters college, they should be trusted. If they haven't learned to be honest by that time, they probably never will no matter how carefully they are watched.

GLENN KINSEL: To me the honor system is the only ideal system for college discipline. Often the best results do not come from enforced discipline. Then, too, circumstances on a college campus are such that no enforced discipline is effective in any large measure. I feel that the honor system is the best possible, but students must be emphatically made to see its merits are numerous and desirable in this process of becoming mature.

DOROTHY MESSERLY, MARY LEMON, ESTHER DOURTE, and ELAINE GRAYBILL all think that the honor system in essence is all right, but it must be instilled in students early. They doubt its success in E-town.

alarm rings; you turn it off and discover the room is too cold so you decide to study in bed. Industrially you begin. Ten minutes later you realize you have dozed off, so you begin all over again. This time you realize it has only been five minutes that you have dozed. So you sit up and begin for the last time (you say). Oh! Oh! look at that clock—7:15! It couldn't be those two hours? Everyone else is headed for breakfast, so you know it must be. Too bad that test is at 7:40. No breakfast, no studying, no passing, no nothing.

E-town Blue Jays Begin 1947 Season With 80-49 Victory Over Bridgewater

Shepherd, Lebanon Valley Crush Basketball Team

The E-town Blue Jays began their 1947 campaign with a murderous 80-49 victory over Bridgewater, then followed it with the most exciting game of the season—a heartbreaking 56-53 loss to Shepherd. After stiff competition for 3 quarters, Lebanon Valley finally crushed a hard-fighting E-town team by a 77-50 score.

In December games, the Blue Jays smothered Haverford, 60-52, put up a stiff battle to lose against a strong Albright team in Reading 64-59, rallied brilliantly against Bethany seminary but couldn't quite manage to win 64-67, and lost to Findlay college 59-38.

Frank Keath made a phenomenal record of 43 points against Bridgewater to put him far in the lead among college scorers in Pennsylvania. Keath, pacing the E-towners at a white heat, has scored 215 points in 9 games for an average of 23.9 points per game.

The game against Shepherd brought the crowd to its feet during a sensational fourth quarter. Trailing by 3 points with less than a minute to play, two quick goals by Fellenbaum and Hivner sent the Blue Jays into a one-point lead, only to have Skinner sink an amazing goal from the foul circle at the other end of the court, resulting after another goal in a 56-53 Shepherd victory.

Cage Chatter

by LOWELL ZUCK

It looks like the time has come to push out those walls in the gym. . . . that Lebanon Valley game saw women and children trampled . . . spectators even standing on garbage cans looking in the windows . . . how about a little more room?

Future games of interest . . . St. Joseph's in Phila. . . about the strongest team we meet . . . games away from home, Bloomsburg and Juniata, Jan. 31 and Feb. 5 . . . good contest at home with Susquehanna, Feb. 8 . . . another home game to put in your book—Juniata, Feb. 20.

Looked good to see Guy Buch play again on an E-town floor. . . . whew! that Bethany game was close. . . . but I haven't got my heart back in place after the last minute of the Shepherd game. . . . heard the Shepherd coach say, "That shore was a lucky shot!"

Was it good sportsmanship to pour it on Bridgewater like that? . . . that man Keath is really going places. . . . I guess everybody's heard that the official name of the varsity is Blue Jays, the girls' team Blue Birds. . . . let's call them that. . . . see you at the Susquehanna game.

Blue Jays, Blue Birds Replace Galloping Gray Ghosts of Past

Blue Jays!! Blue Jays!! Rah! Rah! Rah!

Blue Birds! Blue Birds!! Rah! Rah! Rah!

The basketball teams have new names. According to Coach Ira R. Herr the men's team has been named the Blue Jays and the women's team the Blue Birds.

For sometime there has been a question in the minds of the students and faculty as well as the basketball players themselves as to the name of the team. No more does the name Galloping Grey Ghosts fit; from now on it is Blue Jays!! Blue Birds!! Rah! Rah! Rah!

E-town College Blue Birds Win Two Out of Three Varsity Games

Splitting even by winning two out of the three past games, E-town Blue Birds are holding their own thus far this season.

The first varsity game was played on December 7 at home against St. John's of Reading. The girls put up a good fight but were not able to top the visitors who took the game by a margin of 8 points, making the final score 29-21.

On December 19 Bethlehem Business College visited E-town, where they were defeated by a 43-23 decision. The starting lineup consisted of Frances Krebs, Ruth Cromie and Patricia Mahan, Audrey Kopp and Mary Murray as guards. Coleen Taylor carried the scoring honors for Elizabethtown with a total of 13 points.

The coeds won their next game played on the home court on January 4 against Bridgewater by a score of 30-24. It was a close battle all the way through, but Cromie led in the scoring contest by piling up 14 points and Krebs followed with a total of 11.

Library Gets New Books To Meet Student Demand

"We want more modern fiction," is the daily cry which Miss Isabel McCurdy hears. To cope with this demand, current fiction books have been ordered for the library to be added to those books now on the current book shelf opposite the librarian's desk in the main reading room.

Among the new fiction books is Mistress Masham's Repose by T. H. White, a story about a little girl, Maria, who discovers the Lilliputs, little people whom she can put in her handkerchief. As she learns to know them Maria learns to respect them and they save her from her governess and also help her to find her inheritance.

F. Keath Rated Number One Scorer in Nation

by Nancy Bucher

Pacing the state scoring race by a wide margin, Frankie Keath, Elizabethtown's ace forward, has kept up with a 24-point average which places him number one in the nation in total average points per game.

Starting the season off with a bang, Frankie piled up 31 points against Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science and he has been going strong ever since. Keath has never scored less than 13 points per game. He is not a home player; he scored 28 points at Albright in Reading.

Tops High School Record

His 43 point scoring spree against Bridgewater topped his personal record of 39 points which he achieved while a senior at Cornwall high school. This new record also surpassed that of Guy Buch, highest individual scorer in the nation in 1945 who scored 42 points against Susquehanna university, and whose average was 23.7. This record is believed to be an all-time high in Lancaster County collegiate and scholastic circles.

The nip-and-tuck battle with Shepherd college found Frankie carrying his average 24 points even though he was off form that evening. Nevertheless the star forward played an excellent floor game and during the last period sank 10 field goals.

Fights Against Stiff Competition

During the Lebanon Valley-E-town clash, the point producing forward managed to come through with 22 points even though the opponents were out to stop him. Frankie showed them that they couldn't keep a good man down and it was a close battle up until the last quarter when he was sent out on fouls.

With these 22 points against Lebanon Valley, Keath brings his total number of points up to 215 for the 9 games he participated in this season.

Committees Plan Program Featuring Grand March

Cupid will take over the gym on the night of February 15 when the Senate will sponsor a Valentine party. The party, which will be semi-formal, is one of the main social events on E-town's campus.

The program committee of Dorothy Kline, Helen Rebert, Carroll Spence and Paul Reed have planned an evening of entertainment opening with a grand march and the selection of the rulers of Valentine land.

Also planning for the event are the following committees: decoration, Lida Ann Swope, Nancy Bucher, Charles Kamphaus, William Lutz; refreshments, Glenn Kinsel, Donald Hursh, Rachel Kratz, Jean Grubb.

Presidents of Brethren Colleges Resolve Against Military Training

The presidents of fourteen colleges, junior colleges and seminaries, including those of the Church of the Brethren, located in the states of California, Kansas, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia, at a dinner meeting in Boston, adopted the following resolutions against military training:

(1) Such training is opposed to the fundamental principles of democratic government provided in the Constitution of a free people.

(2) Such a program will tend to weaken the efforts of this nation to establish mutually satisfactory international understandings—the foundation upon which any durable peace must rest.

(3) Any large-scale participation or compulsory participation in such a program by American colleges would violate our academic traditions and grossly interfere with the effective functioning of our democratic system of higher education.

These resolutions were sent to the Rev. Dan Poling, a member of President Truman's special committee to register opinions on the military training question.

The presidents of the following colleges adopted the resolution: Bluffton, Bethel, Elizabethtown, Messiah Bible, LaVerne, Tabor, Bridgewater, McPherson, Beulah, Juniata, Manchester, Bethany Biblical seminary, Mennonite Biblical seminary and Goshen college.

Dr. A. C. Baugher is secretary of the General Board of Education of the Church of the Brethren.

Student Senate Arranges to Hold St. Patrick's Roller Skating Party

The Student Senate has made tentative plans to hold a St. Patrick's roller skating party at Maple Grove.

At a recent Senate meeting a committee was also appointed to discuss plans for an election and schedule. The Senate plans to hold elections early so that officers of all organizations may be formally installed before the close of school.

Jews of Palestine Not Revolting Against British Says Meir Lasker

By Lowell Zuck

"The Jews in Palestine are not revolting against the British," Rabbi Meir Lasker reported to Elizabethtown college students in chapel on January 21. "They see that after their suffering through the ages, they hope to make new homes there."

Rabbi Lasker described the Jewish hope for a Messianic deliverer which has sustained them through centuries of persecution and suffering.

"All religions have been free to come into Palestine except the Jewish," he stated, expressing the belief that 90 per cent of the Jews in Europe would return to Palestine if the way were open for them.

Rabbi Lasker in answering questions, declared that the Jews have no reason to appeal to the Russians, and he minimized the hatred existing between Arabs and Jews. He said "Arabs are friendly to Jews because of the medical and educational aid the Jews have given them," stating that the British are instigating their action against the Jews.

"The Jews do not wish to take over or tear down strategic points the British hold in Palestine; they merely want to go in and make an honest living," Rabbi Lasker declared.

Sigma Kappa Xi Initiates Six New Members Into Organization

Ruth Hertz, Elaine Graybill, Karl Kolva, Jesse Sheetz, Harold Ebersole and Edward Cook have been officially initiated into the Sigma Kappa Xi.

Each new member gave a speech on a scientific subject or performed an experiment after which they were blind folded and fed a few "raw yolks" which in reality were egg shells filled with tapioca. To climax the evening each new member had to find a date to take him or her to the Town Pharmacy for a snack.

I. Wayne Keller, Assistant Controller of Armstrong Cork Company To Review Accounting Systems of European, African Subsidiaries

I. Wayne Keller, general assistant controller of the entire Armstrong Cork company and graduate of Elizabethtown college, 1930, will leave New York on March 3 for Europe and Africa, visiting all the European and African subsidiaries of the Armstrong Cork company.

Mr. Keller will stop first in Algiers, then at Djidjelli, 250 miles east of Algiers, where the principal North African plant is located. He will then continue his trip to Lisbon, Seville and Barcelona. England will be the last stop on the itinerary, where he will remain during most of the month of May.

Mr. Keller will review the accounting systems of these subsidiaries and will install some new systems in certain companies. He will, at the same time, carry out a limited auditing program.

Sock and Buskin Club to Present "The Family Portrait" Mar. 28, 29

The Sock and Buskin club has chosen for their annual play, "The Family Portrait" by Lenore Cossee and Lillian Joyce Cowen which will be presented March 28 and 29 in the gymnasium.

"The Family Portrait" is a drama of simple, eloquent and reverent pictures of the family of Christ during the last three years of His life. The play was first given in New York when Judith Anderson had the leading part. Some critics feel that this play ranks with "The Passion Play."

Tryouts for freshman entrance into the club will be held at the beginning of the second semester.

Pauline Hamilton Sails As Missionary to China

When the S. S. Morning Light set sail from Gulfport, Mississippi, on January 22, 1947, one of the passengers was Dr. Pauline Hamilton, a native of Elizabethtown and a graduate of Elizabethtown college in 1939. Dr. Hamilton sailed for China as a missionary under the auspices of the China Inland mission.

After receiving her B. S. from Elizabethtown, Dr. Hamilton received her M. S. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1940 and her Ph.D. from the same place in 1946. Dr. Hamilton also studied at the Philadelphia School of the Bible and the Biblical seminary in New York.

From 1943 to 1945, Dr. Hamilton taught at Smith college in Northampton, Massachusetts. She spent her summers working at the Marine Biological laboratory in Wood's Hole, Massachusetts. Under the Rockefeller Grant she worked with Dr. L. V. Heilbrunn with whom she also wrote a paper entitled "Quantitative Determination of the Chloride Content of the Single Muscle Fibre."

Dr. Hamilton, a member of the Inter-Varsity Christian fellowship, is very enthusiastic about her work in China. She hopes, "to do evangelical work among the university students," she says. "There are 100,000 students in Chinese universities and colleges who will be the leaders of the China of tomorrow, who need this type of work."

The Brethrenism Commission of the Student Christian Movement spent the week end of January 17 at New Windsor World Church Service center, Maryland.

According to Charles Whitacre, chairman, the group of seventeen who arrived Friday night, sorted, packed, and baled shoes, clothing, and blankets for shipment to needy Europe.

The college quartet entertained regular workers at the Center Saturday night. Glenn Kinsel and Curtis Dubble addressed the assembly on the topic, "For Christ and Church." ## $333 Goal Established; Collection Starts February

Clyde Weaver, chairman of the relief committee of the Student Christian movement of the college, announced that this year the World Student Service fund campaign will be conducted in conjunction with a relief drive for the needy of Europe.

A movie will be shown during the campaign which will present a picture of famine conditions as they exist among the starving thousands abroad. The campaign, to be conducted during the latter part of February, will afford an opportunity for students to give either to the World Student Service fund or world relief separately, whichever they may choose. Both funds combined are hoped to meet the goal of $333.33, which would average about one dollar per student enrolled.

Funds collected through the WSSF will be used along with funds from many other colleges throughout the country for aid to fellow students in Europe who for reasons of war devastation, famine, and poor opportunity are not as privileged as those in America.

E-town College Represents Denmark at Model Assembly

At the United Nations Model assembly to be held at Swarthmore college on April 3, 4 and 5, Elizabethtown college is to represent Denmark, according to Prof. Mahlon Hellerich, Lowell Zuck, Mary Brubaker, Carroll Spence and Russell Kiscaden will represent E-town among the other forty colleges and universities of the east represented there.

"We will have one representative each of the following committees or commissions of the U.N.: Political and Social commission; Atomic Energy commission; the Social and Humanitarian commission and the Economic and Finance commission," Prof. Hellerich stated.

Each person will have to have a general knowledge of the working of the United Nations assembly, the special commission to which he is assigned and especially with the problems of modern Denmark.

Prof. Hellerich also said that an Interecollegiate Conference on Government of all Pennsylvania colleges and universities will be held on April 18 to 20 in Harrisburg. In all probability it will be a model state legislature.

Hertz, Bucher, Bitting and Ganz Elected to Freshman Positions

The freshman class at a recent meeting elected Ruth Hertz as representative to the women's student council and William Bucher to the men's student council.

Edgar Bitting was elected as the freshman to serve on the Student Senate.

Ernest Ganz was chosen freshman editor of the ETOWNIAN.

Starvation and Relief

If the people of Europe and Asia are to reconstruct themselves and build peace and orderly government, it will take much more food than the present 1500 calories per day in most sections of Europe. If young men lose 25% of their weight in six months on 1700 calories as the University of Minnesota experiment shows, 1500 is obviously insufficient for the people to function efficiently. It is therefore to our advantage to participate in any relief drive to help alleviate the suffering, helplessness, and instability of Europe and Asia.

This experiment impresses on us the greatness of the European problem. How can we as American students help?

The WSSF is an excellent means of providing relief on an international, interracial, non-sectarian and non-political basis. This is the American student's part in the world undertaking of student-to-student help. Our money goes for food and clothing because the job of rehabilitation is too great for us.

Our SCM is conducting a drive on campus. Let us all cooperate and help them to meet their goal. Let us resolve that the persecuted peoples are not a burden, but a brother to the rest of us. This is our challenge!

For the facts found in this editorial the ETOWNIAN is indebted to Robert Willoughby.

Future Trends in Higher Education

According to President A. C. Baugher, the American Association of Colleges at their meeting in Boston in January emphasized the following trends in education: greater stress on religious instruction, veterans' education, federal aid to higher education by way of the national scholarship plan, universal military training and the graduate record examination.

Archbishop Cushing of The Boston Diocese and the Rev. George Buttrick, a New York Presbyterian pastor, stressed the need of greater emphasis of religious instruction in all levels of education.

General Bradley, director of the Veterans' Administration in Washington, reported that two and a quarter million veterans are enrolled in education in the United States, one half are in colleges and universities, one fourth in other educational institutions and the other one fourth receiving education "on the job." By 1955 college enrollment is expected to reach three million. In prospect of this, Bradley encouraged the colleges to engage in long-range planning.

Leonard Carmichael, president of Tufts college and director of the National Scientific roster advocated a national federal scholarship program which would be available to the highest academic ranking students.

The problem of universal military training was affirmatively debated by two army officers and negatively by President Mortici Johnson of Howard university, Washington, and President Carter Davidson of Union college, New York. A canvass will be made of all colleges in the United States to determine their view point. The summary will then be presented to the House and Senate committees of military affairs. If this measure passes all colleges will be obliged to establish ROTC or some form of military training.

The last emphasis was on the graduate record examination which has already been administered to pre-med students. Plans are now being formulated to have it administered as admissions policy for other professions and for general academic study.

The Scribbler

Funny how doors become the real instrument for exits and escapades. It goes to show that playing the role of RICHARD as taken from the recent craze tune, OPEN THE DOOR, RICHARD, doesn't always pay, hey? Lowell Zuck might convince one, if he hasn't already, that being tossed out of doors can become quite a spectacle. At least that is what happened during a recent fire alarm drill. No one stopped Lowell to inquire where he lived. It was evident his clothes were in Memorial, but ON THE THIRD FLOOR!

Now Russ Walters takes a different attitude toward doors. His vigorous dash in shorts down the Memorial stairway in response to the alarm, found him sprinting through the first door ON THE SECOND FLOOR. It wasn't long before he discovered that Art class was not entirely dismissed. The Harrisburg Kid again felt renege action setting in to good advantage. He shouldn't mind, for modern art does cater to human interest!

Doors are one thing and windows are another, but Alpha hall took on a picturesque hue as women draped the windows recently. It was the result of the projected words and music provided by the Memorial Melody Makers. . . . thanks to Cliff Huffman's public address system. Just to show the trends of the times, the females were dubbed as "complacent women." In attempting to break down the complacency, the women were exposed to a few sentimental songs by Dave Markey. The men were succeeding! A phone call for Dick Hivner, inspired the fellows to the extent of playing the Wedding March. Here the complications set in . . . that is as relates to the P. A. system, and the program ended. One female, not to be outdone remarked that a complacent woman can always be the equal of a complacent man.

The song, "The Old Lamplighter," in effect, is very beautiful to let play on the imagination, for lamp lighting as a vocation is of the past. What we don't very often realize is that a lot of songs live quite realistically. Take the old lamp lighter, and consider the avocation. And if perchance you don't think he gets a big kick out of it, wait 'til you feel, IN EFFECT, a hot foot!

A series of lectures sponsored in behalf of the seminary life of Franklin and Marshall college were presented January 20-22 by Dr. Reinhold Neibuhr, Associate Professor of Applied Christianity at Union Theological seminary.

Several of our students heard Dr. Neibuhr speak. During his message on "The Love Commandment's Special Relevance to Our Age," Dr. Neibuhr mentioned that an article in The Journal of the American Medical association stated that in many respects the sexes are becoming more and more alike, but which added that there were some respects in which they cannot become alike.

This article was reprinted in The New Yorker with the comment, "Goody, Goody."

Welcome to E-town!

To the thirty-five new students who have entered Elizabethtown college at the second semester, welcome. May you make the best of your opportunity and through cooperation make E-town yours. You can do your part by accepting the standards and customs of the college and making them a pattern of your life. Remember that personality, ideals and scholarship are the things that will help you meet world demands.

Campus Flashes

Buena Machuca still does not have her cities in the United States straight. One day at lunch she called Boston cream pie, Chicago cream pie.

The Sigma Kappa Xi initiation has produced startling effects on campus. Karl Kolva with his beard strangely resembles Abe Lincoln, Rabbi Meir Lasker wondered what the significance was of the strange "pox marks" he saw on the foreheads of some students in chapel, and Eddie Cook enjoyed the part of the initiation downtown so much that he is looking around for other clubs to join.

Mary Murray attended the inaugural ball at Zembo Mosque at Harrisburg on January 21.

An unusual sight downtown on the night of January 24—Charlie Whitacre with nine girls!

Ken Hetrick spent an entire morning in the library cramming for his rural sociology test and then discovered he had been studying his educational sociology notes.

The wedding of Harry Beyer and Marie Towler took place on January 25.

One of the senior girls said she hoped her exam marks would be above C-level; otherwise she would drown.

The students sang "Commendations to Willie the Fire Fighter" in the dining room after Willie Withers discovered the fire in South hall.

The aisles in the chapel have been recarpeted.

The girls of Alpha hall were entertained on the night of January 28 by a broadcast from station WMEM—Memorial hall.

When Harold Merkey and the five fellows with him arrived at the E-town-St. Joseph's game in Philadelphia, they found they didn't have enough money for the price of admission among them, so the man at the gate allowed them to enter on children's tickets.

On the Bookshelf

In describing the methods by which the policy of non-discrimination against Negro servicemen was made to work successfully in what was evidently the New York Stagedoor Canteen, Margaret Halsey, in "Color Blind," offers a realistic approach to some of the problems of race prejudice, and a pragmatic pattern for their solution.

Fundamentally, it was a pattern of education, education of the white hostesses who sometimes tried to evade the rules of non-discrimination to which they had agreed; of the white soldiers (including northern ones), whose reaction to the policy was one of psychosis with tendencies toward physical violence; and of the Negro servicemen themselves, who often weren't sure that the Canteen meant what it said.

But the policy worked, and it worked because, successfully, with hostesses and soldiers, the fables and falsehoods which surround the average white American's attitude toward the Negro were sent scampering like rats under the glaring light of reason, the personal experiences of the canteen confirming the truths we hold "to be self-evident: that all men are created equal. . . ."

Campusology

Professor Schlosser, interviewed by a student about the Shakespeare course, told this one concerning methods of teaching the subject: A teacher who insisted on analyzing each line of "Hamlet" with his students during a course, and so never made much progress, was met by one of these students ten years later. The teacher asked, "Did you enjoy your course with me?" "Oh, yes," replied the former student, "But tell me, how did that play 'Hamlet' ever end? I've always wanted to find out what happened to the fellow."

Mr. Straw, the "brain," tells this one: A student was sitting in the library writing a letter. Asked a friend, "To whom are you writing?" "To myself," replied the student. "What are you writing about?" asked the friend. "I don't know," replied the student. "I haven't received the letter yet."

Last issue of the ETOWNIAN, as everyone noticed, quoted Mrs. Neuman, German professor, replying to the question, "Wer bist du?" with "Hic bin Ich." The copy reader must be a Latin partisan. "Hic Haec, Hoc!"

Repeated on the cafeteria line: A young man went to the doctor complaining of pains in the head. The doctor questioned the young man and found he neither drank, smoked, kept late hours or was of unworthy morals. In fact, the young man was a model of temperance, abstinence, continence and a lot of other ances. Suddenly the doctor's eyes lit up. He felt the young man's head. "I know what's wrong with you," said the doctor. "Your halo's on too tight!"

Thirty-five New Students Registered At E-town College for Second Semester

Four Continue Studies Interrupted During War

Approximately thirty-five new students enrolled at Elizabethtown college for the second semester.

Only four of the thirty-five were women. One, Ethel Hershey of Elizabethtown, was a student here before and has returned to continue her secretarial course. Elizabeth Ann Pennington, who is taking the A. B. course, is commuting from Quarryville, and Mrs. Joanne Dart commutes from Lancaster. Jane Knister, a secretarial student, is from Reading, and Romaine McNally, who plans to be a medical secretary, is from Blawnox.

Spence, Kolva and Forney Continue Flight Training

By a Cub Reporter

Have you heard airplanes making excessive noise around school lately? It probably was Carroll Spence, Karl Kolva, or Charles Forney.

Carroll Spence is in the Naval Air Corps reserve and flies every two weeks from Philadelphia. He is flying SNJ's, F6F's and twin engine airplanes and will go on active duty for two weeks in June. The flying consists of formation, cross country, dive bombing, instrument, night flying and all other phases of combat training.

Karl Kolva and Charles Forney are in the Army Air Corps reserve and fly from the Middletown Army Air base. Their flying consists also of formation, cross country, instrument and night flying in AT-6's and AT-11's. The navy reserve pilots receive pay for their flying but the army program is on a non-paying basis. The navy allows a maximum of eight hours flying a month, while the army allows a maximum of ten hours a month.

Choir Begins Tours Feb. 9; 20 Presentations Scheduled

Because of the postponement of the January 26 trip to Adamstown and the February 2 trips to the Elizabethtown church and to Palmyra, the choir begins its tours on February 9 and closes it on April 27.

There are twenty definitely scheduled programs and a few possibilities. "Praise the Lord, O My Soul" is the theme of the program they are presenting this year. The fourteen selections are divided into four groups, each group being introduced by a different member of the choir.

Group I, For His Greatness, will be introduced by Kathleen Baugher. The songs included in this group are "Songs of Praises," "Holy Art Thou" and "Now We Sing Thy Praise."

Lowell Zuck will introduce the second group. In Spirit and in Truth, which includes "God Be in My Head," "God Is a Spirit," "Send Out Thy Light" and "O Lord Most Holy."

Group III, For His Providence and Protection, including "Our Father Who Art in Heaven," "A Faithful Shepherd Is My Lord," and "Hear My Prayer," will be introduced by Edna Bohner.

"When All Thy Mercies O My God," "Love Divine," "I've Just Come from the Fountain" and "Joyful, Joyful We Adore Thee" are under Group IV, For His Love and Mercy. David Markey will introduce this section.

A spring concert is being planned again for the month of May.

The officers of the choir - Charles Whitacre, president; Beulah Barnthouse, secretary; Clifford Huffman, treasurer, are working with Galen Herr who is directing the choir during the absence of Prof. E. G. Meyer, in arranging the tours of the various churches and also the spring concert.

Gerald Weaver Thinks Himself Frank Sinatra When Hypnotized

Gerald Weaver, Gerry to everyone around campus, has realized the ambition of many a young man of our time in becoming Frank Sinatra for a day. Yes, Gerry knows what it is like now to be America's No. 1 swoon-crooner. Or does he?

You see, Gerry does not remember at all, because he was hypnotized. Under a mysterious hypnotic spell induced by Dr. Polgar on the stage of Manheim high school, Gerry was made to believe that he was the real Sinatra who, while passing through this section, stopped in to sing for the folks at Manheim.

He marched to the microphone with a big smile, straightened his imaginary bow tie, and sang beautifully, "I Love You Truly." When snapped out of the spell while singing he found himself standing completely bewildered before the audience without any knowledge of what he had done. Neither does he remember being made "drunk" with water and being the laughing stock for the roaring audience.

Store Talk

Anything can happen in the college store! It is a very interesting spot!

One morning Dr. Apgar came in carrying a package he had picked up outside with the return address of a brewery and asked who could be getting books from them. . . . Sure enough it was Miss McCurdy.

Joe Kiscaden certainly rates. One night at dinner happy birthday was sung to him; the same night in the store it was sung again only with a little better harmony; next morning he was wished a happy birthday at breakfast.

One of the fellows one evening said, "Just call me Abimelech." He forgot he was in the store and not studying Bible.

Most of the students call the pop-sicles "rich man's" or "poor man's" popsicles. Professor Haubert calls them "inflated."

Clair Schlosser, walking with a couple books on his head, said he was developing his poise. For the benefit of another who hadn't heard it he had to repeat. "You know poise . . . poise and girls."

We certainly have some birds around the campus . . . bluebirds and bluejays at that. They can be purchased at the college store.

E-town Blue Jays Met Stiff Opposition During January Basketball Team Schedule

F. Keath Continues Lead In State Scoring Honors

The E-town Blue Jays met stiff opposition during January games, putting up a hard fight to Bloomsburg Teachers before losing 60-48, and losing to strong St. Joseph's and Dickinson teams away from home by scores of 77-34 and 73-37 respectively.

Frank Keath managed to score 20 points in Philadelphia against St. Joseph's, to continue his lead in state scoring honors. He scored 18 against Bloomsburg and 10 against Dickinson leading E-town scoring.

St. Joseph's used 18 players against the Blue Jays in a game that was definitely one-sided, and Dickinson put on a strong offensive and defensive to avenge last year's defeats by E-town.

Throughout the first half at Bloomsburg, the score seesawed, with the Huskies having a 29-24 advantage at halftime. But a third period rally insured a Bloomsburg victory, with 17 points to E-town's 9.

Cage Chatter

The going's been a little tough this month. . . . Of course you don't meet teams like St. Joseph's every day. . . . There are still a few question marks in the season about teams we play . . . for instance, Susquehanna . . . Juniata, at home, Feb. 20 (don't miss) . . . (it could mean a day off, you know!) . . . and Moravian, at home Feb. 26. . . .

The St. Joseph's game marked the debut for E-town for a new center from Cornwall, Bob Jordan. . . . Albright is really hot lately. . . . Our last game of the season with them, March 6, should prove interesting. . . .

Speaking of sports, how about a better intramural schedule on the campus, athletic committee? . . . One ping pong table doesn't seem quite adequate. . . . This copy's got to go in. . . . Open the door, Richard.

E-town Blue Birds Set Record by Winning at East Stroudsburg

Breaking a record by beating East Stroudsburg State Teacher college on their floor for the first time in the history of Elizabethtown girls' basketball, the Blue Birds added another victory for the season. Of the past four games the lassies played, they split even by winning two out of four.

Traveling to Millersville State Teachers college on January 11 the girls met with their second defeat of the season. Although Monn carried the scoring honors for Elizabethtown with 11 points, Millersville took the game with a 35-27 decision.

The coeds won their next game played on the home court on January 17 against Lebanon Valley by a score of 28-22. It was a close battle all the way through but with Monn's 17 points the girls were able to take the game by a six-point margin.

On January 25 the team traveled to East Stroudsburg where they put up a good fight against a strong team and came out on top with a 23-20 victory. It was a nip-and-tuck game up until the very last minute when the Blue Birds came across with a field goal and a foul shot which made them the victors. Krebs carried the scoring honors for the afternoon with a total of ten points.

The team bowed to the Bridgewater lassies on February 1 by a 22-16 decision on the Bridgewater floor. With a total of ten points, Krebs again carried the scoring honors.

Mark Ebersole, UNNRA Field Service Officer Returns to US

By a 'Cub Reporter

Mark C. Ebersole, '43, UNNRA field service officer and representative of American Friends and Brethren Service committees, arrived at New York March 4 aboard the Queen Elizabeth from Southampton.

Arriving in Italy in March 1946, Ebersole conducted a survey of needs in the Northern Provinces, working with city and government officials to discover the most urgent needs of the war-racked peoples, and applying relief supplies from America.

After a hurried business trip by plane from Rome to Brussels he returned to Northern Italy, and in December 1946 was shifted to Rome, where he lived in an AFSC Convent while working with war orphans.

Mr. Ebersole was among the few Americans to witness the canonization of Mother Cabrini at St. Peter's Cathedral. In January, in a private audience with Pope Pius XII, he received his thanks for the work of the Church of the Brethren.

Leaving Italy January 27, Mr. Ebersole visited Switzerland, France, Belgium and England.

Senate to Sponsor St. Patrick's Roller Skating Party, March 14

The Student Senate will sponsor a St. Patrick's roller skating party at Maple Grove rink, March 14 at 8 p. m.

The young people of the Elizabethtown Church of the Brethren as well as all the students of the college are invited to attend.

To have a private party at the rink the Senate must guarantee the presence of at least 150 people so it is hoped that all students will cooperate.

Rudy Guides Discussion At Business Conference

S. Gordon Rudy, state director of business education and graduate of Elizabethtown college, guided the discussion at the second conference of business education held at the college.

The conferences, according to Prof. John R. Haubert, head of commercial department, are being held in connection with the plan "to have Elizabethtown college become more aggressive and step out and take leadership in business education in this area."

At this meeting plans were made to have a conference at E-town either in the fall or spring of next year for commercial teachers of nearby high schools in order to aid them in their problems and to expand the work of the commercial department of the college.

In connection with the plan of having E-town college become a

IS COOPERATION DEAD?

During the war a B-25 pilot returning from the China-Burma-India theater to an air field in the United States was dismayed to find an enormous amount of squabbling over who had the responsibility for what. When he was in combat, he said there seemed to be a spirit of helpfulness, of going to the rescue of a buddy without second thought, of give and take in all matters which he didn't find in the states, even during the war.

This spirit of cooperation is not new. It existed many years before this past war. But must we always have a war to rediscover it? Must we in time of peace allow blocs and pressure groups to grab for all they can get? It seems that today this spirit is spread rather thin over our national scene. Are sympathy, cooperation and this spirit of friendliness dying?

We may answer this by another incident, that of the community in Texas that threw in all they had to help build houses for veterans. Truck owners lent trucks, office employees lent their time, insurance agents handled all insurance business gratis, and even the mayor was out with a shovel digging foundations. But did they all suddenly become filled with an urge to help? No, there was one man who said he was going to do it whether he had any supporters or not, and when he started, the support developed behind him.

Is cooperation dead? It seems not, but it takes someone to draw it out. Can we be adventurous enough to fill such a spot?

ACCEPT RESPONSIBILITY

With the approach of commencement day, there also comes the time for election of officers for the next year. This brings up the matter of new people accepting new responsibilities.

Unfortunately, too many students take a negative attitude toward accepting this responsibility. Why? It may be for any number of reasons, but most likely it is for one or more of these:

First, holding an office, fulfilling its duties properly, requires more than average ambition and some real vitality. How many students are heard saying, "I could be president of Student Senate I suppose, but it's too much work. I'd rather have that time for myself!" It would not be hard for that person to disregard his selfishness and take on a responsibility in college which would teach him by experience how to deal with responsibility in later life. To step out of the rut of "unambitiousness" is not as hard as people believe if they will but it looks like the time has come to concentrate on getting down to work and becoming a better student.

The next reason may be because of the cooperation one DOES NOT receive from others when he is willing to accept a student office on campus. Every member is willing to "make X Club more active on campus this year"—but when it comes down to individuals, each one lets it up to the other fellow to actually do something about it. What happens? The entire load falls upon the shoulders of those people who were kind enough to accept the responsibility of heading the organization. This is one defect which is up to every individual student to overcome, even if he possesses no leadership qualities, or has not the faintest idea of becoming an officer of an organization.

Still another situation that must be cleared up before more students will be willing to assume the leadership position on campus is the common fault of destructive criticism. Everyone finds himself in the position to gripe about the way things are run on campus and about what is wrong with their club, but who finds himself in the position to suggest how things could be made better, how he could help to carry some of the responsibility heaped upon the few people who are officers?

If you are asked to fill an office, take it; you will certainly profit by it. If you are one of the majority of people who are only members, then do your share, do not let the leaders do all the work. If you must gripe—do it for the betterment of the organization and make the officers feel as though their sincere efforts are appreciated.

The Scribbler

Did you hear about the recent English assignment that ended in a SCRAP? It all began when five topic sentences were given as leads for a theme. One of the leads read, "Quillan looked as if he would go down before the end of the round." Don Hursh was especially interested in developing this topic sentence; however, at the onset there was one thing which gave Don no end of trouble . . . the definition of the word "Quillan."

Don brought his theme to a close with the following sentence: "The ball in the center of the ring, pranced around his compondet landing a stiff right hand blow. Quillan was clever in bodily movement and appeared as the better fighter and potential winner." Here the tide must have turned, for the fray came to a crunching climax . . . right into the waste paper can!

While on the Southern tour, our Men's Basketball teams faced Shepherd State. During a tense moment of the J.V. game, a foul was called and the referee bellowed the letters 36. Without reason, the gym was overtaken with a dead-pan silence. Suddenly Paul Reed yelled, "Hold your cards everybody, there may be a bingo!"

In the first intra-mural encounter, South hall played North hall in a game which involved brawn and gusto! During a frenzied tussel, Coach Stoner removed Tony Burriesci. As Tony limped off the floor, his hair sprawled and gasping for breath, coach inquired, "What's the trouble?" In a desperate tone of voice Tony replied, "They wouldn't t'row me the ball, they wouldn't t'row me the ball!"

Quite a few scientific discoveries have been brought to light during the war. For instance, it is possible to send and receive a message along a beam of light. But that can hardly compare to what the girls of Fairview have so ingeniously contrived. One might well compare it with Aladdin and his Magic Lamp. At any rate, they are able to send a message along the ether—providing it doesn't spell "turkey"—and get their wish. The experiment is highly effective on orders of hamburgers and cheeseburgers. It is understood, however, there are some strings attached!

From the many appearances on campus, one would think everyone has had a turn getting a lift in a taxi. But who would think of giving a taxi a lift? A quintet of women consisting of Anita Fridinger, Grace Hoover, Romaine McNally, Edith Snyder, and Lucille Hoover gave the matter some thought when they helped push one disabled in a snow drift.

One day during chorus practice Galen Herr, the present director, referred to Hans Kindler, director of the Washington Symphony. It so happened that Director Kindler was about to conduct when his keen sense of hearing detected an A flat. On investigation, the soloist was discovered to be a radiator valve. No sooner had Mr. Herr cited the incident than a frustrated squeak was heard. It all goes to prove radiators have ears, and they do find means of "radiating" their feelings.

Campus Flashes

After studying "Henry V" in Shakespeare's class, Beverly Lay, Edna Bohner, Arlene Kettering and Doris Witter went to Philadelphia on March 1 to see it in technicolor.

Monroe Good has a new paternal look in his eye and proudly talks about his "family." His son, Ronald Bruce, was born on February 20.

Mrs. Elinor Neuman, instructor in German on campus and president of the local PTA, addressed the Rotary club on February 7.

A sign with a subtle warning, surrounded by hearts and flowers, is being displayed on Audrey Kopp's and Ruth Cromie's door—"Never underestimate the power of a woman."

The Social Problems class, under Prof. Galen Kilhefner's direction, visited the Crippled Children's hospital on February 20 and the Masonic homes on February 27.

Cheerleaders, Jack Stauffer and Ray Boose are wearing new blue and gray shirts. The cheerleaders also introduced new cheers at the Juniata basketball game, which may have been responsible for the thunderous cheering, or it would have been the promise of a free day after victory.

Lowell Zuck's quest for higher knowledge wrought havoc in the library when he broke two lower shelves trying to reach an English Literature book on the top shelf.

Over the weekend of February 28 to March 2, Ruth Cromie attended the National Council of Mathematics Teachers in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

On the night of her birthday, Miss Vera Hackman entertained members of the Sock and Buskin club between rehearsals of acts of their play.

Members of the junior and senior classes are now ordering their college rings.

Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Baugher have been entertaining the faculty on the installment plan. On the night of February 14, they had as their guests, Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Bucher, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Neuman, Prof. and Mrs. Galen Kilhefner, Miss Vera Hackman and Miss Martha Martin.

Prof. and Mrs. Ira Herr, Prof. and Mrs. John Haubert, Prof. and Mrs. Mahlon Hellerich, Miss Isabel McCurdy and Mrs. Elva Halk were entertained on the night of February 21.

Those who were guests on February 28 were Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Apgar, Dr. and Mrs. O. F. Stambaugh, Prof. and Mrs. Horace Kaufman and Prof. and Mrs. Ezra Bucher.

Because of illness, Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Schlosser, Prof. and Mrs. E. G. Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. James Breitigan were unable to attend and will be entertained later.

During the reign of the king and queen at the Valentine party Keath and Musser were asked to pick a member of the opposite sex and then entertain. None other than Miss Hackman and Mrs. Kilhefner were chosen.

Campusology

In Shakespeare's "King Henry the Fifth" Kate, the daughter of the King of France, is trying to learn English from her maid, Alice. She asks in French what the English words for elbow, neck and chin are, and the answers come out: "De Nick . . . de Sin . . . and (as Kate herself garbles it) . . . de Bilbow. . ." Could Shakespeare have foreseen the antics of a certain southern Senator?

Clyde Shallenberger contributes this:

The young son of a minister had just been reading about Omar the Tentmaker, when the boy's mother informed him she had received her driver's license. Remarked the youngster, "Well, I guess we can call you 'O Ma the Dent Maker now.'"

And this:

Why are men more exclusive than women?

Because men set their price and women are given away.

Dr. Schlosser told of the custom of a group of nearby settlers who would sow their wild oats in their youth, then marry, settle down, join the church and repent. Married first, then joined the church and repented, huh?

Ever hear of the cautious boy who prayed the Lord to forgive him the sins he forgot to commit?

A certain student in Principles of Math wanted to make sure that he had the correct answer to a certain problem. So he proudly reported to the Professor: "I checked this problem nine times. Here sir, are the nine answers."

From a remark by one of our student preachers in ethics class: "The worst man in New York knows better what to do than the best man in New York is able to do." That goes for Elizabethtown, doesn't it?

Another one from King Henry the Fifth that may appeal to former enlisted men. (Act IV, Scene I):

Pistol: Qui va la?

King: A friend.

Pistol: Discuss unto me, art thou officer; Or art thou base, common and popular?

Store Talk

By Sara Swartz

They say that children must play. Spence had a good time one afternoon with a paper airplane. Cromie can make a better one though—hers flies.

We have an additional male trio on campus of late. Since in the spring a young man's fancy turns to love, Reinhold, Clyde Weaver, and Spence are practicing "Springtime in the Rockies."

After a history of civilization test some time ago, one student came into the store asking what the Chinese contributed to civilization. The only thing he could think of was Chinamen.

Harvey Brandt, trying to tell a joke, asked the question, "What is the name of the guy that Mickey Mouse runs around with?" Frazer immediately replied, "Minnie."

When the storekeeper's rich uncle dies in the poorhouse, she is going to get a million dollar swing just like Bill Lutz's.

Bretz one day asked for a box of soft ice cream. She got it. She ate it with a straw . . . until the straw clogged.

Some of us have been wondering what Prof. Haubert tells his son when he goes home. Bumpey came into the store one day asking for popsicles for the "men back here working on my daddy's place."

Armed with decals (a new item in the college store) and a bucket of ice water (just drawn from the pop cooler, Mervin Hess and Ed Fitzkee went forth to bedeck their auto windows. The job was a little damp and cold but they made out.

It is so natural for Caba to go to the store that one morning he found himself there asking, "What am I doing here?"

Johnny Buch is quite a storekeeper. At least he can sell 7-Up. The night of Miss Hackman's birthday party for the play cast he sold twenty-three bottles without stopping.

Blue Jays Defeat Juniata by 66-55 Win With Keath and Zink as High Scorers

Coach Herr's Squad Lose 59-58 Contest to Moravian

The E-town Blue Jays defeated Juniata college, avenging an earlier loss by a 66-55 score in a hard-fought and exciting game paced by Bob Zink and Frank Keath who scored 23 points each.

Previously E-town had swamped Bridgewater, 81-57, for their fourth win of the season with Keath's 37 glittering points continuing his lead in Pennsylvania scoring honors.

Coach Ira Herr's men lost a heart-breaking 59-58 contest to Moravian after leading all the way and in spite of Zink's 25 points.

Shepherd's college in West Virginia again defeated E-town by a similarly close margin, 53-51, with Zink's 23 tallies high score.

Susquehanna defeated E-town twice, 60-46 and 75-53, deciding the first game in the fourth quarter in spite of Keath's 22 points.

Lebanon Valley wore down E-town in another hard-fought game winning 52-32 over the Blue Jays for the second time, while earlier in the season Juniata defeated E-town at Huntingdon, 47-43.

E-town Junior Varsity Win Four, Lose Seven Games

Other victories were over the Lebanon Valley JV's by an exciting 45-41 score with Andy Wida's 12 and Jay Frantz's 10 points leading, over Mechanics Grove, 54-40, and over Patton Trade by a 46-25 score.

Bill Witmer's 12 counters were not enough to beat Susquehanna's JV's 49-30, and earlier E-town lost to them, 38-28. Russell Walter scored 17 against Dickinson's JV's, although the Blue Jays lost, 40-31.

Hershey Junior college also beat E-town although Carroll Spence scored 17; and Wida's 14 counters were not enough to beat York Junior college as E-town lost, 66-40.

Stevens Trade and Lebanon Valley's JV's inflicted the remaining defeats by scores of 56-47 and 47-34 as Walters, Spence, and LeRoy Trupe took E-town scoring honors.

Blue Birds Tie With Lock Haven, Defeat Stroudsburg, Millersville

By Nancy Bucher

Winning two of the past three games and tying the last, the Blue Birds have been enjoying a victorious streak.

February 8 the East Stroudsburg lassies visited E-town seeking revenge for their defeat on their home floor but our girls topped them for the second time—this time by 10 points with a final score of 37-27. Monn carried the scoring honors for E-town with a total of 16.

The coeds won their next game played on the home court on February 12 against Millersville by a 45-34 margin. Our girls played with a determination to come out on top and Krebs and Monn shared the scoring honors by racking up 18 points apiece.

The last game played by the Blue Birds was on February 20 against Lock Haven at home. It was a tough battle but our girls put up a good fight against their visitors and managed to tie the score 38-38. Krebs came through with 21 points to give her the scoring lead for E-town.

Dean H. G. Bucher Treats Child Psychology Class

By Jane Frey

"Congratulations, Dean Bucher!" was the theme of a recent child psychology class. Reason: Dr. and Mrs. Henry G. Bucher announced the birth of a daughter, Carol Lynn, on April 1 at the Lebanon Sanatorium.

After members of the class had consumed popsicles provided by Dean Bucher and after they had tried to aid him in naming the new baby, the class was dismissed with the warning, "Don't let this get to the Dean's office."

Spence, Zuck, Brubaker, Kiscaden Attend Model UN General Assembly

The Model General Assembly of United Nations, held at Swathmore college April 5, was preceded by two days of commission debate on agenda, where resolutions were adopted and sent to the assembly.

Carroll Spence, Elizabethtown college Economic and Financial commission delegate for Denmark, participated in the debate which sent to the general assembly a recommendation for a charter of an International Trade organization. Lowell Zuck served on the Atomic Energy commission, sending a resolution to the assembly after two sessions of debate for an International atomic development authority.

UNESCO succeeded in making specific broad general plans for an International university. Mary Brubaker represented Denmark on the UNESCO commission.

The controversial Political and Security commission after extra sessions of heated debate, defined aggressive acts, clarified troop enumerations, and recommended an independent Palestine without increased immigration until independence. Russell Kiscaden served on this commission for Denmark.

PEACE AND THE UN

"Since wars begin in the minds of men, it is in the minds of men that the defense of peace must be constructed." This statement from the constitution of the educational, scientific, and cultural organization of the United Nations indicates something of the tremendous task the UN is attempting. Since several of us had the opportunity of participating in a student model UN convention, some impressions of world problems and peace-making stand out in our minds.

First, an intellectual and emotional understanding of national pressures and international tensions is required. We need to examine our relationship to the Soviet Union soberly, understand realities, and act without hysteria or irrational fear.

Second, we need patience. Ordinary human beings, getting over the horror of war, tragically but naturally are fast recovering from the sense of devotion and loyalty they felt when the battle was still in doubt.

Third and most important, we need good will, "peace in the minds of men." The effect of another war should be obvious. Only as tensions are aired openly in the UN and precedents are set up in a true give-and-take fashion, can the weak fabric of international law be strengthened and the very real desire of all men for peace be realized.

This Editorial "Peace and the UN" was written by Lowell Zuck, senior guest editor of the month.

A FOREIGN PROBLEM

Shall the United States loan $400,000,000 to Greece and Turkey?

The latest statement from our foreign relations men is, "the loan should be made to Greece and Turkey, but only for a temporary relief and should include no military equipment or personnel." This statement was part of Mr. Austin's speech to the United Nations assembly and certainly soft-pedals from the attitude of President Truman's last speech, which was practically a "declaration of war" on Soviet Russia. Additionally, it is argued that this fund should be controlled by American experts and should be repaid, even before any British loan.

Considering the sum of $400,000,000 as adequate to rebuild the economy of Greece and Turkey and prohibit the spread of Communism, is a gross understatement of what it will really cost. Therefore, this loan is very likely to become a recurring issue, which the UN is not going to be willing to take off our hands once we assume the responsibility.

Above this fact, however, stands the importance of making the loan from a humanitarian standpoint. The loan should be made, but it should have been stated as a preventive measure against disease and starvation rather than a defensive measure against the spread of Communism.

This editorial, "A Foreign Problem" was written by Robert Kingsbury, senior guest editor of the month.

ACT NOW!

One of our professors recently asked a class of fifty how many had voted in the election for the president of next year's Senate. About nine students held up their hands. When he asked how many had voted for the SCM officers only three could say that they had.

Presuming that the class was typical of the entire student body, it isn't difficult to see how representative the voting was. Of over 300 students, approximately 100 attended the meeting at which the most important student leader on campus was chosen—the president of the student government association.

Why is there this lack of interest in student government? If the right to choose their own leader were denied there would immediately be a great deal of clamoring and howling. Yet how few take advantage of the privilege now!

Let's have a better turnout at all other elections. How about it, students?

This editorial "Act Now!" was written by Beverly Lay, senior guest editor of the month.

The Scribbler

Not too many long days ago, there was a mother skunk and her two baby skunks. The name of the one was "In" while the name of the other was "Out." One day mommy skunk called "Out" in and told him to go out and bring in "In." It was only a short time before "Out" came in bringing "In."

"My," said mommy skunk, "How did you manage to make such a quick discovery?"

"In-stinct!" replied "Out."

But w-a-i-t a minute, this is getting a little ahead of the story. There certainly must have been a reason why "In"-stinct. Well, it so happened that "In" left the family abode shortly after that big February snow storm and became trapped on a road between two huge snow banks. One could almost sense the situation as Mr. Motorist in the person of Warren Kissinger, together with Don Hursh, Charles Forney, Elberta Fox, Jean Young, and Gretchen Sherman approached. Every attempt Warren made to drive on, resulted in a wild dash by "In" for the opposite bank.

Then in a desperate come-what-may disposition, the driver advanced the car some thirty feet. On opening the door to determine just who was in the most strategic position, Warren found "In" in pretty much that position. He quickly closed the door, took a hurried look through the open window and nervously pressed his foot on the accelerator. Just as the car bolted forward, a slight spray over his hands caused him to remark, "Hey, it's comin' in through the window." But enuf said. "In"-stinct!

South Hall lay still and quite content,
And scarce there stirred acknowledgment
Of any soul within, save a wierd "tick-tock"
Like a heavy throb in a hollow clock.
Ere long there appeared Ed. Biting, acute.
He dashed down the hall and clicking salute
He unlocked his door—and fell destitute!
For nothing remained but his best Sunday suit,
The throb of a metronome, a piccolo, and flute
But Eddie was wise and didn't chastise
And all that had strayed was quickly repaid.

Bill Witmer and John Lichty, roommates in South . . . there's never a dull moment . . . hall, agree there's nothing like a good refreshing shower after a stiff workout after baseball practice. One evening on just such an occasion, John was impressed with a shower that felt overly refreshing . . . when a cold blast of water came streaming through the curtain. A tremendous y-i-p-p-p warned his roommate to be on the lookout for hidden hydrants.

Moments later Bill stepped into the shower, and arming himself with a bucket of nice warm water, waited. Then, just as he expected, the curtains parted. No sooner than they did, Bill heaved the water! Peering through the curtain, Bill discovered how solvent a person fully dressed can look after absorbing a bucket of water. For there stood Tony Burriesci gasping, but with a big smile, "I knew you'd t'row it, I just knew you'd t'row it." Quite a contrast to his basketball chatter!

CORRECTION!

Campusology

Overheard in Ethics — "Some people are so good, they are good for nothing."

Doctor Schlosser tells this one. A minister informed his congregation that he would have an astounding bit of information to disclose at the next church board meeting, but that he wouldn't be able to reveal it until then, because of its secret nature. One of his parishioners, a gentle lady, approached him and asked to be told the information ahead of time.

"You see," she told the minister, "I won't be able to attend the meeting."

The minister whispered, "Can you keep a secret?"

"Of course," replied the lady.

The minister's eyes twinkled, "So can I," he remarked and bowing, walked away.

Again in Ethics: "Would you go back to jungle tactics?" asked one student. "I'd prefer it to atomic tactics," replied another.

A young lady was boasting about the fact that her forbears came over on the Mayflower. Quipped a friend, "After all, you couldn't choose your ancestors. And then, again, what makes you so certain they would have chosen you?"

Gleaned from the library: "If all our misfortunes were laid in one common heap, whence everyone must take an equal portion, most persons would take their own and depart."—Plutarch.

One of our student teachers is exceptionally crafty. She gets her pupils to learn arithmetic by having them figure the baseball batting averages.

Consolations for the Journalism class: Oliver Goldsmith, sold the immortal "Vicar of Wakefield" in advance for $60 to avoid the clutches of creditors. . . Nathaniel Hawthorne sold his first short story for $35—after four years of continuous labor and study. . . While still young, Anton Chekov had many contributions accepted. But the returns were so small it took him a year to save enough money to buy an overcoat. . . After all expenses of Arnold Bennett's first novel were paid, he had enough left to buy a new hat!

Said one student of philosophy to another, "Open minds are all right . . . but few people do anything to take advantage of the openings."

Heard around Bible Class: "The road to hell is paved with cinders."

An ascetic—"A man suffering from too much pleasure."

For some positions men should be sinless. But sin prepares us for other positions.

Campus Flashes

Dr. A. C. Baugher has announced that the custom of having two senior orators at commencement will be discontinued this year.

There was quite a coincidence between Julius Caesar and the Ides of March in the Shakespeare class. As Doctor Schlosser said, "We killed Caesar on the right day."

Spotlight on the library: an exhibit of twenty oil paintings, mainly Lancaster county scenes, painted by Harry Martin Book, art instructor at the college—gift of books from the Jewish Chataqua Society of Cincinnati, Ohio, to give an understanding of the bases of Judaism and to promote goodwill between Jews and Gentiles. . . Assorted text books donated by the parents of Irene Kuhn, the Cassell's German Dictionary especially appreciated. . . Ruth Musser of the class of 1946 is doing two weeks of library practice at the E-town College library between terms at Drexel institute.

Doctor Bucher has invited a variety of outside speakers into his classes recently: Kenneth Grosh, vocational guidance director from Elizabethtown; J. W. Bingeman, principal of Maytown high school; Caleb Bucher, principal of the Milton Brecht school, Lancaster; and Glenn Wise, a student at the same school.

No excuse now for falling asleep in rooms 201 and 202 in Alpha Hall, since the walls have been painted a soft green and new fluorescent lights have been installed.

The Goshen college choir, Goshen, Indiana, gave a concert in the auditorium on April 1.

Nancy Bucher and Gladys Weaver have been substitute teaching in the Florin and Rheems schools.

When asked at the dinner table where he lived, Ken Gingrich replied, "In heaven, but I'm here on vacation."

Dr. O. F. Stambaugh Addresses Science Club at March Meeting

"The science student at Elizabethtown college is fortunate that he has an opportunity to receive a well-rounded education," Dr. O. F. Stambaugh told the science club in a lecture on "What a Young Scientist Should Know," on March 11.

According to Dr. Stambaugh, all the sciences and inventions are still in their infancy and have ample opportunity for advancement. The student scientist of today must be prepared to carry on where the scientist of today will have stopped.

"Broad education for living as well as learning is necessary," Dr. Stambaugh admonished the members. "Every student should have his own philosophy of life, common sense and wisdom. The science student of today has the spotlight turned on him."

Although we are living in a fast age, they should not worry about anything because it will not benefit them. Every student should learn to budget his time, how to concentrate and should develop a hobby.

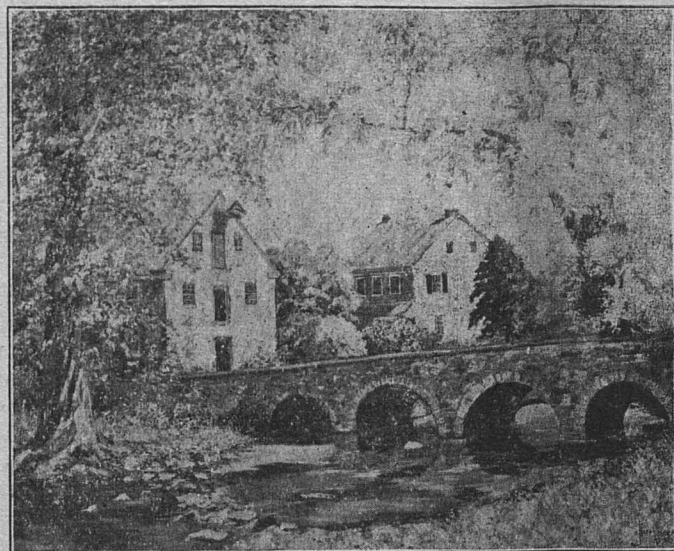

In conclusion, Dr. Stambaugh asked the question, "Do you get what you spend for an education?"

"Pollution of Water," a movie, was seen by the science club on March 25 in the chapel.

Sock and Buskin Play, "Family Portrait" Review

By Nancy Bucher

The Sock and Buskin club under the direction of Miss Vera Hackman, closed a successful two-night performance of "Family Portrait" on Saturday, March 29.

"Family Portrait" by Lenore Coffee and William Joyce Cowen is a drama portraying the family life of Christ in modern day language. It opens as Jesus is thirty years of age and has left His family in order to go out to teach and minister to the people. It follows the life of the members of His family up until several years after His death and crucifixion.

Beulah Barnhouse, cast in the leading role as Mary, the Mother of Jesus, displayed unusual ability and was extremely impressive. Other leading roles equally well handled were played by Daniel Raffensperger, John Stauffer, Helen Rebert, Robert Hoffman, Jean Sharpe, Phyllis Druck, Carroll Spence and Charles Whitacre.

Each night the auditorium was well filled and the audiences were responsive and left very favorably impressed.

Costumes for the presentation were designed and made by Mrs. Joseph Kettering.

Baseball Schedule Includes 14 Games; 26-Man Squad Composed of 18 Freshmen

First Home Game Played With F and M April 15

As the 1947 baseball season began with a Va.-W. Va. trip, on a tough 14-game schedule, Coach Ira Herr's Blue Jays rapidly rounded into shape with a 26-man squad of whom 18 are freshmen.

Coach Herr listed the pitchers as Robert Reber, Russell Walter, Roy Herr, Merle Black, Carl Fink, Donald Krebs and Matthew Meyer.

Catchers on the squad include Carroll Spence, Jay Frantz, John Lichty, James Snively and Andy Wida.

Competing for infield positions are Frank Keath, John Berger, Elwood Raber, Edwin Boll, Samuel Meyer, Donald Hivner, Richard Hivner and Charles Jordan.

Filling in outfield positions remain Russell Kiscaden, Wilbur Hoover, Robert Nation, Henry Gingrich, Curtis Bucher and William Bucher.

After games with Bridgewater and Shepherd away from home, the Blue Jays will play F and M at home on April 15, Lebanon Valley at home on April 24 and Shepherd at home on April 29.

Later home games include Albright on May 10, Juniata on May 13, Susquehanna on May 17 and finally Bridgewater on May 24.

Nine Men Listed on Tennis Team, First Match Scheduled April 12

Opening their 1947 schedule in a match with neighboring Franklin and Marshall on April 12, the E-town tennis team expects another successful season with nine men listed.

Coach Ira Herr reports that the Blue Jay tennis players this year include Frank Zink, Bob Zink, Harold Fellenbaum, James Roberts, Henry Miller, Edward Fitzkee, Robert Kettering, Orville Schwanger and Carl Raffensberger.

Futher matches will be played with Dickinson, Susquehanna, and Lebanon Valley both at home and at Carlisle, Selinsgrove and Annville.

Store Talk

Some people get around faster with a sore foot than those with two good feet. A telephone call came for Raber. The call was sent to the Science building; he had just gone to the library. Upon calling the library, he had just gone to the game room. He had a sore foot. Does he get around?

Jordan is a discouraging fellow. Ken Gingrich thought he had an A after a recent test. But until Jordan got finished telling Ken what he thought he had wrong, Gingrich had a C or maybe a D.

The day before "Open House" the empty bottles sure did return to the store. However, kids, there are still a good many missing.

How the students do envy Eddie Bitting. His aunt bought him a music rack devise that he can use to read in bed. If someone would only invent a means to turn the pages, Mr. Bitting would be very happy. It takes him about a half hour though to read one page. Guess why!!

Ralph Musser is either good on the shot or on the aim. He blew a straw holder at Keath one day and it landed right smack in his mouth.

Rev. Toland can eat anything from the store. He doesn't mind being fat. He's already married.

What is this we have been hearing about Prof. Kauffman's flying so low? Every morning Johnny Sauers has to fasten his parachute when they come through Middletown.

Outstanding Athlete to Receive Jack Dempsey-Adam Hat Trophy

Elizabethtown college will award the Jack Dempsey-Adam hat Sports Trophy this year for the first time to the outstanding athlete of the year on campus, Coach Ira Herr announced.

The athlete receiving the trophy will be chosen by vote of the student body, with approval by the athletic department and a faculty committee.

The basis for choice, Coach Herr said, will be enthusiasm, sportsmanship, team spirit and cooperation, athletic ability and accomplishments.

Memorial Hall, Day Students Tie for First Place In Intramurals

In order to give both the men and women who were not members of the varsity basketball teams an opportunity to play basketball, the Recreation commission sponsored intramural games under the supervision of Coach Ira R. Herr.

The men were organized into four teams. Each dormitory — Memorial hall, North hall, and South hall and the day students entered teams. Contests were held various weekday evenings and also on several afternoons. A total of eleven games have been played to date with Memorial hall and the day students tied for first place, each having won four games and losing one. South hall two victories to four losses and North hall won one and lost five.

The two women's teams, Alpha hall and Fairview hall, battled on the evening of February 24. Fairview was the victor by a final 19-9 decision.

E-town's Blue Birds Win Four Of Last Five Games of Season

Winning four out of the last five games played, the Blue Birds finished up a victorious season.

Traveling to Lock Haven State Teachers college on March 1 our lassies suffered the only defeat in the last stretch of the season by a final 32-16 decision.

The next two games played on the home floor were easy victories for the coeds. Meeting Wagner college of New York on March 8 our girls came out on top by a 32-18 score. Monn and Cromie shared scoring honors for the afternoon each carrying 11 points.

On March 11 Albright suffered a 31-19 loss to the E-town Blue Birds. Krebs carried scoring honors for the evening with a high of 14 points. The E-town JV girls played the Albright JV's in a preliminary game but their 21 points did not top the 32 of their opponents.

Our lassies visited Lebanon Valley on March 13 at the Annville high school gym where they took the third successive victory, 30-20. Scoring honors again went to Krebs, who tallied 15 points.

The Blue Birds ended the season by defeating Moravian 37-18 on the afternoon of March 22. Monn, who was high scorer, poured in 13 and Cromie was second with 11.

F. Keath Scores Highest Number of Points Per Game

Elizabethtown's high scoring Frank Keath finished the 1947 basketball season with the highest average among Pennsylvania college scorers, a glittering 20.6 points per game.

Although Villanova's Joe Lord just managed to edge out Keath for total points scored in the last game of the season, Lord played three more games than Keath.

Keath's 433 points in the 1947 season in addition to his 371 markers scored in his freshman year make a record of 804 points scored in two college seasons.

Earlier Frank was honored with a guard position in an Associated Press all-state second team selection.

Coach Ira Herr predicts that Keath's scoring record this year will rank among the first ten in the nation.

Annual Etonian Now at Printers, Announces Editor, Frances Krebs

LETTER TO ALUMNI

Our Alma Mater, Elizabethtown college, is an institution embodying spiritual principles deep-seated in the heart of men and women of strong conviction, of clear vision, of great purpose, and courage and sacrifice.

Sacrifice is applying to sacred use such talents, time and money as one possesses. Joy is derived from making such sacrifice even though it causes personal physical denial of material things, which to those lacking such high vision and deep conviction of ideals would be painful to the flesh.

The fruits enjoyed from such sacrifices are Christian characters, because of a realization that the only outcome that truly matters in life is the development of God-like men and women after God's own heart—characters who have a Christian influence leavening the social order of human relationships.

Now if Elizabethtown college is to continue to embody those Christ-like spiritual principles, upon whom does the responsibility for its maintenance, and more, for its growth and its enlargement of influence depend except upon its alumni who have caught this same vision and have the same convictions which its founders and past builders have had? It will mean a continuance of the sacrifice of time, of talent and of money gladly made by the children of Elizabethtown college.

Let this appeal for continued interest and support in building our Alma Mater, even stronger and greater, be effective!

Chester H. Royer, President
Alumni Association

ALUMNI and ALUMNAE

Every educational institution has its alumni and alumnae. The word alumnus stems from the Latin meaning foster-child. With this interpretation of the word, a college becomes the foster parent of the student. In a sense this represents the relationship between the educational institution and the students.

Today educational institutions think in terms somewhat similar to those used in industry and business. The college has a service and a product to sell. To the student the college offers to assist him in acquiring an education for a specific vocation or profession. To the public the college offers its students after they have attained a degree of proficiency. And just as an industry is known by its finished product so an educational institution becomes known by its graduates. Again just as an industry will be constantly on the lookout for the latest methods of manufacturing and scientific developments, so a college will aim to have a staff personnel with up-to-the-minute training and experience.

Nevertheless, however strong the faculty and regardless of the size of endowment and buildings, the actual test of the excellence of any college is in the quality and success of its graduates. This is stern pragmatic reality. The alumni and alumnae of Elizabethtown College have made an enviable record for their alma mater. As essential as money and buildings are to an educational institution they cannot be of greater value than a successful and loyal body of alumni and alumnae. They constitute the great productive endowment of any college.

Elizabethtown college is justly proud of her graduates and former students. Among them are men and women who have taken their places of leadership in business, industry and the professions. Thousands have entered vocations in which transparent sincerity coupled with high mental ability and honest industry have won for themselves places of respect. This body of men and women are a permanent memorial to the founders of Elizabethtown college. We urge the students now enrolled and others who will join them to uphold the ideals of "EDUCATE FOR SERVICE."

The Scribbler

Now that the chant of TAKE ME OUT TO THE BALL GAME is reverberating from every Dogpatch village that can boast of a Yokum right down to the cement horseshoe of Yankee stadium, nowhere does it echo more vigorously than at E-town when the umpire signals PLAY BALL!

And synonymous with baseball is the philosophy every coach injects into his players, and that is TO EAT, SLEEP, and LIVE baseball. And Bill Hoover means to prove that nowhere is that philosophy taken more literally than right here at E-town!

You see, the other Saturday the ball team was enroute to Juniata. At Lewistown, coach called "time out" for dinner. An hour later the team was about to leave, but where was Hoover? Coach, in making a hurried jaunt up and down the street, stepped in a barber shop and discovered Hoover perched on a chair getting a hair cut. Hoover, caught by a glance that said more than words, undraped himself in an instant, threw the surprised barber a coin, and dashed out the door.

Perchance our Juniata friends should wonder concerning the Blue Jay who kept a head tucked under both wings, it was not so much a matter of mental derangement as physical derangement . . . the guy needed the other HALF. A-HAIR-CUT!

From the man-in-the-street point of view those long-drawn-out whistles are not so much an expression of spring, but rather it is an approval of the dozens of curvaceous ankles lining the edges of the women's balconies. From the man-in-the-air point of view, a plane seems as effective on sun worshippers as does a hawk in putting to flight a flock of chickens. Is it any wonder that student pilots soaring a few hundred feet above the balconies are made to remark, "WHAT ARE YOU, CHICKEN?" The women insist, however, their blushing is due to a reason MORE ULTERIOR!

All proceeded as usual during the 2 p. m. sociology class until the building shook from a noise that sounded like the rolling of empty barrels. After constant interruptions, Prof. Kilhefner dashed to the third floor to discover the source of the terrific noise. On reaching the third floor all was reduced to calm and quiet. After a moment's hesitation a door opened and there stood Ralph Musser staring the Professor in the face. Then in a reminiscent sort of mood, Ralph spurted, "Did you hear all that noise, too?"

A lot of interesting conversation takes place on campus, and, as one of the guest speakers recently expressed, seldom does anything ever come of it. However, little did Wee Willie realize what might be implied in a statement such as that! Now the other day Willie was sitting atop a wash bowl deep in conversation with Wally Goodman. In concluding a profound statement, Willie sprang off the bowl and in the act his elbow tripped the water lever while his hip pocket became firmly entrenched in the spigot. After some desperate FREE WHEELING, he untangled himself, and in straightening up, the hip pocket, filled with water, sought an outlet familiar to the law of gravity! Consciously enough, Willie did teach a moral about conversation, IF YOU SEE A PERSON IN A PECULIAR SITUATION, DO NOT FORM ANY RASH CONCLUSIONS.

THANKS!

The ETOWNIAN wishes to thank the alumni, the journalism class and all others who helped to prepare this alumni edition. Some of the material was received too late to be printed in this issue so it will appear in subsequent issues.

Campus Flashes

Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Baugher will hold a reception for the graduates of the 1946-47 class and their parents Sunday afternoon, May 25, at their home on College avenue.

Harry Straw came dashing into the abnormal psychology class Tuesday when the period was half over. As he sat down puffing he was asked by a fellow classmate why he was so late. "Oh this—daylight saving time has me all messed up!" was his answer. After two whole days of it, Harry?

Galen Herr's gift to all those choir members who did not become married or engaged over the Easter vacation, is a book published in 1896, entitled "How to Woo, Wed and Win" or "The Lover's Handbook."

The combined social problems and abnormal psychology classes visited the Harrisburg State hospital and the Hershey Industrial school.

West Virginia may be lacking in some respects, according to campus thought, but the choir discovered when they gave a program in Charlie Whitacre's home church, that the West Virginians know good food. There were 108 dishes on the table according to Kathleen Baugher's count.

The annual Senior-Faculty tea was held in the Alpha living room on May 7.

Doctor Apgar made good use of the intermissions at the senior play, catching up on the comic strips—"Joe Palooka" and "Grin and Bear It" were of special interest to him.

Reba Sebelist added variety to the Sigma Kappa Xi trip to Kitchen's creek by falling into the creek. Charlie Forney chivalrously saved her.

Arlene Kettering's car came back from the same trip with a dented fender and a smashed grill plus a cracked window in concentric circles where Cromie's mathematical head hit it during the accident.

Looking at the seating arrangement in chapel of Ralph Musser, Frederick Moore and Musser Martin in the seat in front of him, the Rev. Tolland said, "Musser, and more Musser!"

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lehman announced the birth of a son at the Lancaster General hospital, April 26.

Kenneth Hetrick, a member of this year's journalism class, was elected editor of the 1948 ETOWNIAN. Robert Leshner was elected business manager.

At a recent all school assembly Walter Reinecker was elected president of the Athletic association. Anna Kepner will be secretary-treasurer.

Campusology

Overheard from a commuting student: "I worked on our garden yesterday. Do you know, the biggest pleasure of digging a garden comes when you're resting on the shovel?"

(In Ethics) Dr. Schlosser to students: "Then you think we should put a quotation mark around this word 'boss' because he's a political stooge for powerful figures?"

Student: "You should put a jail around him, not quotation marks."

Overheard in sociology: The races of mankind are in a race after womankind.

Semanticists hold that our only real problems lie in the misuse of words. Thus, to solve our problems, according to some of them, we need only call murder, rebirth; war, a weeding of excess population; and rejoice at a hanging, since it's only a "necktie party." Yet if they were hungry, how much would they enjoy it if we made them eat their words?

The great psychological paradox: The man who can laugh at himself can accept himself with all his flaws and deficiencies. The man who cannot laugh at himself, is the man who hates himself. The man who hates himself, thinks others are laughing at him. He therefore hates others. Find the man who can laugh at himself and you find the man who loves his neighbor, as himself.

Doctor Schlosser tells these two:

A witness to a murder was brought before an English judge who asked him to tell what had happened. The witness said: "He'd a stick and he'd a stick. And he hit he and he hit he. And if he'd hit he as hard as he hit he, he'd of killed he and not he, he. Hee, hee!"

A teacher had a little boy who came late to school. The teacher reminded the boy, who took it to heart and began coming on time. This impressed the teacher so much, she told the boy, "Johnny, I see you're early of late, glad to see you first at last because you've always been behind before."

Alumni Serve in Many Professions

Three Hamilton Sisters Teach, Serve the Church

Three Hamilton sisters, alumnae of Elizabethtown college, are engaged in various occupations which separate them by an ocean.

Mrs. Esther (Hamilton) Hoffman who resides on College avenue is the head of a kindergarten in Elizabethtown held in the basement of the Bethel Church of God, five days a week from September to May. Mrs. Hoffman attended both Hollis Dann's Music school and Millersville State Teachers' college.

The second sister, Miss Dorothy Hamilton, is the guidance director for the Annapolis, Maryland, High school. Miss Hamilton, a bicycle enthusiast, has toured the United States and Europe, stopping at youth hostels for rest and refreshment. Before the war, during her tour in Europe, Miss Hamilton saw the effects that Hitler's regime was already having on the German people. She says that at that time the members of families had only distrust for each other. Miss Hamilton is hoping to start on her bicycle tours again this summer. She received her Master's degree from New York university.

Steigleman's Broken Nose Almost Lost War for U. S.

"I would be interested to know the gentleman who broke my nose in a basketball game at Elizabethtown college. I want to tell him the United States almost lost the war on that account. The Navy finally threw me out because of my injury, although I tried to point out to them that I didn't feel I was commissioned as a bloodhound to smell out the enemy," says Walter A. Steigleman, associate professor of journalism at Indiana university in Bloomington, Indiana.

Professor Steigleman, who is also an author, has written articles for magazines and newspapers. A new book, "Money Makes the Mare Go" is now on the spring publication list.

Before he went to Indiana, Professor Steigleman was a government radio commentary writer in Washington, D. C. He is now pursuing work towards a doctorate at the University of Wisconsin and has attended the graduate schools of the University of Pennsylvania and the George Washington university.

Professor Steigleman feels that "things at Elizabethtown must have changed."

Twenty Delegates Attend Intercollegiate Conference on Model State Legislature

E-town Backs Dickinson In Committee Meetings

The Elizabethtown college delegation to the eleventh Intercollegiate Conference on Government's Model State Legislature at Harrisburg, was successful in having adopted legislation of constitutional change lowering the age of the electorate to eighteen, and passing a bill for the construction of a bridge to span the Susquehanna.

Supporting Oliver Hormell, Dickinson, candidate for the speakership, twenty delegates were busy in caucus and committee meetings at the State capitol and the Penn Harris hotel.

From initial meetings on Thursday, April 17 until Sunday at 2 p. m., when the general assembly adjourned, sponsors of bills debated with feeling on proposed legislation and procedure.

An attempt by the Penn, Temple, Duquesne coalition to "steam-roll" legislation and rules was blocked in the rules committee by parliamentary tactics, and bitterly attacked on the floor of the assembly by Mr. Straw.

Prof. Mahlon Hellerich who sponsored college participation of the group in practical political training, was assisted by Jansen Hartman and David McMinn.

John Walker who sponsored a bill for the Middletown bridge served on the Highways and Public Works committee. John Buch served on Veterans' Affairs committee, Stanley Heisey, Education; Mary Brubaker, Health and Welfare; Robert Nissley, Constitutional Changes; Emma Engle, Local Government; Robert Brackbill, Agriculture; John Sheibley, Natural Resources and Public Utilities; Jansen Hartman, State Government; Bob Greenawalt, Taxation and Finance; Richard Musser, Labor and Industry; and Harry Straw, Rules Committee.

Store Talk

By Sara Swartz

Have you heard that Vance Hitz is selling pots and pans? When asked what kind he is selling, he replied, "chocolate."

One day George DeFrehn was repeating a little poem about spring and Fred Moore standing by said, "My, that has a nice sediment." Fred is sorta sedimental guy anyhow.

Karl Kolva does not need a course in salesmanship or advertising. He knows all the ins and outs already. Since he is on the staff of the Indoor Advertising company on campus, he makes the signs quite conspicuous . . . spells sponsoring "sponsoring." Smart, ain't he??

One day Willie Withers came into the store carrying the picture of a beautiful girl from Florida. When asked where he met her, he said, "On top the Washington monument."

When approached about tickets for the skating party, Caba said he is too light for heavy skating and too heavy for light skating.

Frazer, Caba and Hitz are forming a league of the men who went overseas on the George Washington. They haven't set a membership price yet . . . anytime now. For membership see anyone of the afore mentioned. Requirements — you must have gone overseas on the GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Baseball Season Opens With Southern Trip; E-town Bluejays Win Three, Lose Five Games

Reber, Walters, Herr And C. Fink Pitching

The 1947 E-town baseball season opened with a decisive 10-1 victory over Bridgewater and a 9-1 victory over Shepherd in a successful southern trip. Red Reber was the winning pitcher in the Bridgewater game and Curtis Bucher hit a home run. Bucky Walters won against Shepherd.

In a hard-fought home game F & M managed to eke out a 10-inning win over E-town on errors, 3-1, as Reber pitched for E-town.

At Huntingdon, the Bluejays lost a 7-6 decision to Juniata in the ninth inning as Roy Herr was charged with the loss, with Walters the starter.

Lebanon Valley won a 5-3 contest from E-town by careful playing and good bunting in spite of Carl Fink's and Red Reber's crafty pitching. At home E-town murdered Shepherd 20-4 as the full squad played and Walters and Herr pitched.

Lebanon Valley again was too strong for E-town as they won at Annville, 10-2, the losing pitcher being Walters. Susquehanna also scored an 8-1 victory over the Bluejays as Reber was charged with the loss.

"Anger Is Steam" States Dr. Bernard C. Clausen

"Anger is steam," stated Dr. Bernard C. Clausen, author, lecturer, and pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, Cleveland Ohio, in an address to the student body during chapel, April 17.

Anger can be propelled or it can explode. Every atom of anger must be put into force for a better world. Dr. Clausen in his speech aimed to make E-town students graduates with a M.A. degree—Master of Anger—by teaching them that anger must be steady, self-contained and serviceable.

Dr. Clausen addressed the International Relations club and other students in the afternoon on "The Iceman Cometh" and the Student Christian movement in the evening on "Life Can Be Beautiful."

Walter Gingrich Announces All-Sports and Choir Dinner

Intramural Chatter

In intramural softball, Memorial hall eked out a 10-9 victory over South hall on April 28, and North hall also beat the Day students by a 10-9 score on April 30.

In intramural volleyball, South hall beat Memorial hall 2-1 in exciting games including a 21-19 score in the third game.

Fairview hall beat Alpha hall 13-5 in a 5-inning girls' intramural softball game.

Tennis Team Wins Three Games; Loses 5-4 Match With F and M

The E-town tennis team so far has scored 3 victories against only 1 defeat in a very successful season, which opened on April 12 as the Bluejays dropped a very close 5-4 match to F & M at Lancaster.

The remaining matches were easy victories for E-town, an 8-1 match at Juniata, a 7-2 victory from Lebanon Valley, and an 8-1 decision from Millersville.

"Icebound" Senior Class Performance Reviewed

By Nancy Bucher

On Saturday night, April 26, at 8:00 p. m. the Senior class of Elizabethtown college presented "Icebound," a Pulitzer Prize play by Owen Davis, in the college auditorium-gymnasium.

A drama in three acts, "Icebound" is a story of the Jordans, a New England family, setting forth the problems and difficulties that confront them concerning an expected inheritance. "Jane," a servant to the Jordan family is the kind and unselfish factor amidst the greedy members of the family. Through her the wayward son is reformed. Although the play has its more serious side there is a definite spark of humor displayed throughout the drama.

Arlene Kettering did an excellent job in the leading role as "Jane"; and she was well supported by Frances Krebs, Beverly Lay, Doris Witter, Gladys Weaver, Kathryn Long, Leroy Reinhold, Merle Black, Edwin Boll, Daniel Haldeman Robert Willoughby and Jackie Wenger.

The play was directed by Miss Vera R. Hackman. Music was provided by the college orchestra under the direction of Mr. Galen Herr.

Three Hamilton Sisters Teach, Serve the Church

Dr. Pauline Hamilton is now studying the Chinese language at Shanghai preparatory to doing missionary work among the young Chinese. Her trip to China was rough but beautiful; she arrived on March 5. At Yokohama she was fortunate to be among a group who were taken to Tokyo to witness the war criminal trials. Here she saw Tojo who was apparently calm otherwise but wrote furiously. She says, "It is pitiful that we must spend all this money for these trials."

From Tokyo she went to Shanghai where she is now studying. In about a year, she will be able to do missionary work if she passes seven rigid examinations. Dr. Hamilton was graduated from Elizabethtown college in 1939 and received her M. S. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Pennsylvania.

"Opportunity Favors the Prepared Mind," States Dr. Snively at Commencement, May 26

Dr. Baugher Addresses Seniors At College Baccalaureate Service

"The first significant statement in Genesis 1 is 'In the beginning God'," stated Dr. A. C. Baugher at the annual Elizabethtown college baccalaureate held in the Washington Street Church of the Brethren on May 25 at 7:30 p. m. "This is a curtain raising statement; it is precise and exact as a strong beat in music."

Dr. Baugher remarked that "In the beginning God" should be the bench mark for every person even as the surveyor uses a bench mark in his occupation.

"As God availed light from darkness, so must man continue to divide truth from error. Man must select, screen, sift and make intellectual and moral discriminations constantly," Dr. Baugher continued.

Dr. Baugher asserted that God must be kept at the center of life in order to make Christianity a religion of enthusiasm. Everyone is a co-worker with God and dedicated to the kingdom of God.

In conclusion, Dr. Baugher put forth the challenge, "Be the lamp-lighters for your day and your time."

Prof. M. Hellerich Translates Copy of Stuttgart Declaration

The April issue of "The Lutheran Church Quarterly" contains Prof. Mahlon Hellerich's translation of "An Interpretation of the Stuttgart Declaration."

Dr. Kans Asmussen, one of the leaders of the Evangelical church in Germany, gave Prof. Hellerich the German copy during an interview in Schwaebisch-Gmund near Stuttgart.

The Stuttgart Declaration in which the leaders of German Protestantism confessed their guilt for conditions in the world was written in October 1945 when a delegation from the World Council of Churches went to Germany to confer with the executive committee of the Evangelical church in Germany.

Two pronouncements of the Stuttgart Declaration read as follows: "We are aware that we are united with our people not only in our common suffering but also in the solidarity of our guilt. With great regret we say that through us unspeakable suffering has been brought upon many people and many nations."

Dr. A. C. Baugher Confers Degrees on 44 Graduates

E-town Plans to Have 400 Students Next Year

"The student enrollment outlook for next year is very bright," said Dr. Henry G. Bucher, dean of instruction, in a recent interview.

According to Dean Bucher, approximately 250 members of the present student body will be returning next year.

"We are planning to accommodate four hundred students next year which leaves space for one hundred fifty freshmen. Almost one hundred of these have already registered," stated Dr. Bucher.

An attempt is being made to be much more selective in the matter of high scholastic standing.

REACHING MATURITY

One sign of maturity in a person is the ability to follow directions. If, at any place, college is that place where students are credited with being mature, capable adults. We, at Elizabethtown, would not like to admit that the converse is true. However, recently many invitations were sent out to students inviting them to the various social functions held on and off the campus. Many of these were never answered. Perhaps the blame cannot all be put on the students, for they might not have known what RSVP, down in the corner, meant. In English, this means, "respond if you please." Evidently many of them didn't please!

In most instances, a written response was not required, only a verbal reply to an indicated person was necessary. However, some of the students were too lazy, shall we say, to fulfill their obligations. Due to this situation, several people were forced to accept the responsibility and each contact about forty people. We hope until another year that the students of Elizabethtown will be more ready to accept responsibility.

Another sign of immaturity is the inability to keep promises. At the May Day dinner many of the students, who had signed acceptance slips, did not appear, and there was an excess of good food. However, the food was not wasted and many students were very eager to help with the excess. It is rather disconcerting to an able cook to receive the impression that her efforts and services are not fully appreciated. One way to be a success in life is to keep promises whether they involve much or little.

One outstanding feature of the May Day dinner and the afternoon program was the ability of Elizabethtown students to cooperate and be able to put on a program and serve a meal with very few errors. Thanks again, students and—happy vacation. See you next year.

THE PAST AND THE FUTURE

As we approach the end of the school year, it is fitting that we express our gratitude and thanks to those who have helped to make the ETOWNIAN a successful organ of Elizabethtown College. We wish to especially thank Miss Hackman for her advice and counselling she has given and for the time she has spent in helping to edit the newspaper.

We also wish to express our appreciation to those who have delivered the copy and the dummy to and from the printer and to those who have assisted in folding and mailing. Without this assistance, many times the newspaper would not have been released by the deadline.

As we look forward to the beginning of a new school year in September with the newspaper staff, we hope to bring clearly before you that the ETOWNIAN is your newspaper and not that of the staff members. To have a successful newspaper, every student must cooperate with the reporters and always be ready to submit news.

If you want a bigger and better paper, you the students are the ones who must do it. We, the editorial staff, are here only to edit and guide along the lines of good journalism and be responsible for the publication of the newspaper. As you go out this summer to various places and positions, remember your school paper and try to invent ways of bringing the best paper to the alumni and friends—one that will be a credit to Elizabethtown.

(These editorials were written by next year's editor, Jane Frey).

The Scribbler

In the beginning when Twashtri came to the creation of woman, he found that he had exhausted his materials in the making of man, and that no solid elements were left. In this dilemma, after profound meditation, he did as follows: He took the rotundity of the moon, and the curves of the creepers, and the clinging of the tendrils, and the trembling of grass, and the slenderness of the reed, and the bloom of flowers, and the lightness of leaves, and the tapering of the elephant's trunk and the glances of the deer, and the clustering of rows of bees, and the joyous gaiety of sunbeams, and the weeping of clouds, and the fickleness of wind, and the timidity of hare, and the variety of the peacock, and the softness of the parrot's bosom, and the hardness of adamant, and the sweetness of honey, and the cruelty of the tiger, and the warm glow of fire, and the coldness of snow, and the chattering of jays, and the cooing of the kokila, and the hypocrisy of the crane, and the fidelity of the chakrawaka, and compounding all these together, he made woman and gave her to man.

But after one week, man came to him and said: Lord, this creature that you have given me makes my life miserable. She chatters incessantly and teases me beyond endurance, never leaving me alone; and she requires incessant attention, and takes all my time up, and cries about nothing, and is always idle; and so I have come to give her back again, as I cannot live with her.

So Twashtri said: Very well; and he took her back. Then after another week, man came to him again and said: Lord, I find that my life is very lonely, since I gave you back that creature. I remember how she used to dance and sing to me, and look at me out of the corner of her eye, and play with me, and cling to me, and her laughter was music, and she was beautiful to look at, and soft to touch; so give her back to me again.

So Twashtri said, Very well; and gave her back again. Then after only three days, the man came back to him again and said: Lord, I know not how it is, but after all I have come to the conclusion that she is more of a trouble than a pleasure to me; so please take her back again. But Twashtri said: Out on you! Be off! I will have no more of this. You must manage how you can. Then man said: But I can not live with her. And Twashtri replied: Neither could you live without her. And he turned his back on man, and went on with his work.

Then man said: What is to be done? For I cannot live either with her or without her!

Note — This is an extract from a beautiful Sanskrit story.

The advent of the ETOWNIAN has made a budding celebrity of everyone on campus. Everyone is being asked for his autograph.

Campusology

If I go a long road, give me as companion, not the person who knows much, but the person who questions much. We will both be greater in knowledge and understanding when we reach our destination.

Some people go to college as others turn their gas ranges on and off. School starts, they really "cook." School ends, they turn off the jets, store their knowledge in some hidden tank, and then go out into the world with no better preparation than before matriculation. They forget that school is a tool. They consider that school is a task. Why throw away a good tool, after the hours one spent in fashioning it?

Unoriginal gleanings: In the footprints of the sands of time some people leave only the marks of a heel.

Love starts when a woman sinks into a man's arm but it winds up with her arms in a sink.

Pleasure may be something you take or give. Happiness is always something you share.

Some people would get along better by spending less money than they haven't earned, for things they do not need, to impress people they do not like.

Honestly now, have you ever met anybody who gave you as much trouble as yourself?

Overheard in the chemistry lab: Flattery is soft soap and soft soap is 90 per cent lye. (That may not be good chemistry but it's good sense).

And in Ethics: Believing a thing ever so honestly, doesn't make it true.

From the more experienced on the campus: When a woman likes a man, she's cool and aloof; and when she dislikes him, she's animated; but when she distrusts him—she's charming!

Courtesy is the art of living in a crowd.

Definition: "As I would not be a slave, so I would not be a master. This expresses my idea of democracy. What ever differs from this, to the extent of the difference, is no democracy."—Lincoln.

On the train the other day, one of our out-of-town students found herself sitting beside a little girl with a doll in her lap. Our student leaned over and asked cheerily, "Does your dolly talk?" "Yes," said the little girl curtly, "But not to strangers."

Two college presidents were discussing what they'd like to do when they retired. "I'd like to be superintendent of an orphans' home—no letters from parents," said one.

The other suggested: "Why not be a penitentiary warden, the alumni don't insist on coming back!"

In music class: Singer: How do you like my voice? Accompanist: I've played the white keys, I've played the black keys. But you're the first one I ever saw that could sing in the cracks!

M. Strickler Returns from Work as Red Cross Worker in Japan and the Philippine Islands Observes Robbed Filipino And Chinese Cemeteries

Miss Mary Strickler '25 recently returned from a stay in Japan where she was employed as a Red Cross worker. Miss Strickler left the United States in April, 1945 and returned in April, 1947. En route home, she stopped in Germany and viewed the conditions there.

During her visit to Manila, Miss Strickler observed Chinese and Filipino cemeteries which had been robbed of their jewels by the Japanese soldiers. Also at Manila, Miss Strickler heard the testimony of Yamashita. Although the proceedings were interesting, they were very slow because of the necessity of an interpreter.

On the Admiralty Islands, all the government buildings are Quonset huts. The beautiful cocoanut palm trees, Miss Strickler claims, look as if they stepped out of a geography book.

Prof. M. Hellerich Translates Copy of Stuttgart Declaration

What we have often witnessed before our own congregations we now declare in the name of the whole church. Indeed we have through long years fought in the name of Christ against the spirit which found its most frightful expression in the forced regimentation of National Socialism; but we accuse ourselves that, despite our struggle, we have not confessed courageously enough nor have we believed joyfully enough nor have we loved ardently enough. We hope to God that through the universal effort of the churches the spirit of force and of retaliation which is today striving anew to become powerful will be curbed throughout the world, and that the spirit of peace and love in which alone tormented mankind can find solace, will come to reign."

In the words of Prof. Hellerich the Stuttgart Declaration "explains the position of German Protestant leaders on the question of German war guilt to other Protestants. It is a truly profound statement of the faith interested in the ecumenical church in that it emphasizes individual conscience and humility and repentance."

Dr. Frederick Neuman has translated other church materials including German newspaper articles which dealt with the Stuttgart Declaration appearing in 1945-46.

Elizabethtown Blue Jay Strong Tennis Team Concludes Season With Eight Wins, One Loss

Robert and Frank Zink Lead Team to Victories

By Kenneth Hetrick

Led by a pair of master strokesmen, Bob and Frankie Zink, a strong Blue Jay net team concluded a sparkling season by serving Susquehanna university a 9 to 0 setback for their eighth straight win. The netmen's only defeat came at the hands of F & M in the first game of the season by a score of 5 to 4.

The two Zinks, together with Hal Fellenbaum, Ken Hetrick, Ed Fitzkee, Hen Miller and Jim Roberts amassed a total of 68 match wins against 13 losses for the nine-game schedule. The "tennis twins" accounted for 27 straight match wins with no defeats.

Fellenbaum, somewhat handicapped because of an injured shoulder, made a clean sweep of his singles matches. Hetrick and Fitzkee were set-back only twice each in competition, while Miller and Roberts displayed plenty of winning form to complete one of the most successful years in the history of the school.

The tennis record for the past season follows:

Store Talk

By Sara Swartz

Did you ever hear Johnny Buch blow a clarinet? After the "campaigning band" retired, Johnny picked up someone's clarinet and all alone by the furnace room, he tooted "Home Sweet Home." Home was never so sweet before.

Did you ever see so much enthusiasm as was put forth on the recent May day campaigning? Prof. Hellerich thinks some of that energy could very aptly have been spent on some pratable classwork. The store certainly showed evidence of originality and work.

Someone ask Bobby Jordan about his short cut to Philadelphia. When he reads the map, it only takes ten hours to get there. Now, isn't that a short cut??

One morning at 11 o'clock Raber said he had not been in class since "Hector was a pup." When asked when that was, he replied, "At 8:40." When you see anyone look very unhappy or depressed, just sing this little song to them. It really works; just ask Leroy Reinhold about it. He has evidence.

When everything goes wrong, keep smiling;

When everything goes wrong just laugh;

Throw back your shoulders, stick out your chin,

As long as you are smiling, you are bound to win.

When everything goes wrong, keep happy,

Never let your troubles get you down;

Everything will be alright and the whole world will be bright

If you smile, smile, smile.

P. S. — Lee can tell you the tune.

Blue Jays Close Season With 5 Wins, 9 Losses

The E-town Blue Jays finished the 1947 baseball season before the alumni with an exciting 5-2 victory over Bridgewater, compiling a record of 5 wins against 9 defeats.

Bucky Walters kept Bridgewater shut out until the ninth inning with his fine fast ball, and two brilliant fielding plays helped him in the eighth inning.

Bill Witmer made a fine backhand stab of a line drive at short in the 8th, doubling a man off first, throwing after having fallen.

Matt Meyer at second aided E-town in the 9th with a beautiful stop and putout to dampen a Bridgewater rally. Frank Keath paced the hitting with 3 hits, and Walter, and Boll hit doubles.

In earlier games, Susquehanna eked out a ninth inning victory over E-town 9-8, as Roy Herr was charged with the loss. Weirich of Millersville scored a 7-2 victory over the Blue Jays as Black was charged with the loss. Juniata's Kyper was the winner in a 7-2 contest as Reber took the loss for E-town.

After losing 7-2 to Albright in the first game of a doubleheader, the Blue Jays came back strong to hang up a 2-0 shutout as Walters pitched beautiful ball.

E-town also swamped Shepherd (W. Va.) State, 20-4 for the second time under a barrage of hitting.
